Reports Mao Will Be Replaced As Red China's Head

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China's mainland underground reported Saturday that Mao Tze-tung will be replaced as chairman or head of Red China's government in Peiping next month.

Even if the reports prove true, this would not necessarily mean eclipse for the 65-year-old architect of the greatest revolution since Lenin's upheaval in the Soviet Union.

The reports said nothing about Mao being replaced as head of the Chinese Communist party, fountain of all power in Red China. Indeed, appointment of a new government chief might be no more than a maneuver to quiet mainland unrest, with Mao still grasping all the reins of power as boss of the party. The agents said the unrest was due mainly to the new commune system that has uprooted family life in China.

Top Nationalist leaders, scanning reports from their agents, said they were convinced of their accuracy. They said the test will come some time next month when the People's Congress, Red China's legislature, assembles in Peiping to rubber-stamp party decisions.

Agents shuttling between Formosa and the mainland or relaying reports via Hong Kong and the long southeast China coast have had some of their reports borne out by events in the past—the purge of landlords, Red China's intervention in the Korean War.

The agents also have missed the mark, however, and there is no way of assaying the accuracy of this latest report except against what Peiping itself lets out.

The agents said the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party was summoned to an urgent session at Hankow, the great Yangtze River port city in central China, Nov. 26.

Peiping radio reported Mao had met with other party chiefs and Premier Kim Il Sung and other North Korean party leaders at that time in Wuhan. Wuhan is the Communist name for the tri-city complex of Hankow, Hanyang, and Wuchang.

The agents said Mao presided at the meeting which still was in session.

But Peiping radio said Premier Chou En-lai had seen Kim off to North Korea at the Peiping railway station Dec. 9. While the broadcast did not say Mao was present, it seems unlikely such a powerful figure as Chou would have been in Peiping if the Central Committee still was in emergency session in Hankow.

The agents said the committee had been summoned to consider, first, the failure of the campaign against Quemoy; and second, the wide unrest in China over the commune system that uprooted traditional Chinese family life in the drive to increase farm and industrial production.

Press Door-To-Door Search For Killer Of Five In Family

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — Aroused by five ruthless slayings, police pressed a door-to-door manhunt Saturday for a teen-ager accused of wiping out a Good Samaritan's family.

"I was trying to salvage a soul," sobbed the sole family survivor, Thomas J. Pendergast.

The 39-year-old aircraft worker found the slashed bodies of his wife and four young children in their modest home Friday night. All their throats had been cut; the mother had been shot, as well.

Five counts of murder were filed against Carl A. Eder, 16, alias Charles Harrison, of Roniquoy, N.Y., a suburb of Rochester.

Pendergast said he had picked up the tall, pimply-faced youth off the street because he wanted to save the boy from a life of crime. The teen-ager had lived with the Pendergasts six weeks.

Authorities, fearful the killer might strike again, sent officers from house to house through the east San Diego section. They peered inside each dwelling and asked the occupants if everything was all right.

The victims were Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and her children: David 9; Thomas 6; Diane, 4½, and Allen, 2½.

Investigators said it appeared that Mrs. Pendergast had been killed first. Her body, with bullet wounds in the left temple and left breast, lay in a hallway of the two-bedroom house in this San Diego suburb.

Police said the two smallest youngsters were killed in the bathroom. They theorized the slayer then waited until David and Thomas arrived home from school. David's body was on a bed in the front bedroom; Thomas' in the adjoining garage where officers said he apparently had fled.

Resolution Urges Settlement Of N. Africa War

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. Political Committee approved a resolution late Saturday urging France and the Algerian rebel government to negotiate a settlement of the four-year-old war in North Africa.

But the resolution appeared headed for rejection in the 82-nation General Assembly because of failure to win the necessary two-thirds majority.

The vote in the committee was 32 to 18 with 30 abstentions. The United States and Britain voted no, while the Soviet Union and its entire Soviet bloc voted yes.

The assembly was set to consider the resolution at a night meeting winding up a lackluster three months session.

In addition to being unable to reach any decisive agreement at the 1958 session over the future of Algeria, U. N. diplomats failed to break the East-West deadlock on outer space.

Representatives of the Asian-African countries pleaded in vain for enough support to assure Assembly approval of the resolution. France boycotted the debate.

Some Western nations said they could not support the resolution because their governments had not extended recognition to the Algerian rebel regime set up in Cairo.

But supporters of the rebels insisted that the resolution specifically mention the provisional government as one of the parties in any negotiations.

It was the first time that a resolution containing a recognition of the right of the Algerian people to independence had been approved in the Political Committee.

Says Cold War Demands More Spending

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) Saturday said the cold war demands more spending for the military and our allies.

Humphrey, who had a marathon, 8½ hour interview recently with Russia's Premier Khrushchev, told an audience of food brokers the Russians, in waging a "novel economic war, are convinced that an America which allows itself the luxury of individual liberty and free enterprise must eventually go bankrupt."

This country must prepare itself for the long haul in the cold war, Humphrey said.

Humphrey also asserted tax relief must come for small business firms.

Accuses Ike Condoning 'Slaughter Of GOP Party'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was accused by a former GOP national committeeman Saturday of condoning the "slaughter of the Republican party."

Clarence Budington Kelland, fiction writer and ex-committeeman from Arizona, called in a letter to GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn for a realignment of both major parties and a coalition of Republicans with Southern Democrats in a wholly conservative party.

Kelland, who backed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952, said "the blame for the disgraceful Republican defeat on Election Day should be placed squarely where it belongs—on the lap of President Eisenhower."

He also assailed what he called Eisenhower's "incredibly stupid appointments, chief of which was that of Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States."

"With this appointment. . . he placed in the highest judicial position in the world a man who did not know the difference between a law book and a farmers almanac," Kelland said. "He placed in this man's irresponsible, selfish, ignorant hands immeasurable power. Warren seized this power and used it to legislate instead of judicate."

Alcorn was out of the city, and his aides said they had no comment on Kelland's letter. But Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif) fired back in an interview that Kelland was "100 per cent wrong" in his attacks on Eisenhower and Warren.

Kuchel, who represents Warren's home state of California and may be the Republican liberals' candidate for a place in the GOP Senate leadership, said Kelland was out of step with the times.

"The Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren will live in history as the unflinching defender of constitutional rights," Kuchel said.

"This nation, under Eisenhower, is at peace. We work for nuclear and other disarmament. A presidential commission seeks the right to vote for all Americans. Are these things wrong? Of course not, and they are all continuing goals of President Eisenhower and the Republican party.

FOOTPRINTS 150 MILLION YEARS OLD

CAPETOWN (AP)—Director R. A. W. Compton of the South African Museum has found some animal footprints reckoned at 150 million years old. Casts have been made of the fossilized tracks of eight animals belonging to three groups — dinosaur, mammalian reptile and pseudosuchian — and are being transferred to fibre glass. They were in a dried riverbed near Leribe, Basutoland, and exposed by erosion.

Says World Tension Can Be Eased Only If West Bows To Soviet Union

PARIS (AP) — Moscow greeted the NATO powers assembling in Paris Saturday with a new note declaring world tensions can be relaxed only if the West bows to Soviet terms.

The note, obviously intended to spread division and confusion in the councils of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was directed at the 15 treaty powers three days before their annual meeting.

A digest of the note called for a solution of the Berlin crisis by making West Berlin an unarmed free city. It also repeated old Soviet demands for the suspension of nuclear tests and a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Communist East European nations of the Warsaw Pact.

The United States accused the Soviet Union of using the note to exert propaganda pressure on the NATO meeting.

A State Department statement issued in Washington said a summary had been received there on a "lengthy declaration" delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

While not detailing the contents of the note, the department said that "the note is clearly directed at the Paris meeting of foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Soviet tactics were the same as a year ago, when the NATO countries assembled to consider missile bases. Moscow preceded that meeting with notes warning that all their countries were within easy range of Soviet missiles.

This year, the No. 1 concern in NATO is the Berlin crisis. A source who saw Saturday's Soviet note said he could see no modification of the Russian demand that Berlin be demilitarized by June 1, with Communist East Germany in control of all supply lines to the city isolated 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Secretary of State Dulles, among the early arrivals flying in during the day, and three other Western foreign ministers meet Sunday in advance of the NATO sessions to

Decatur Plant Agrees On New 3-Yr. Contract

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Representatives of the Decatur plant of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union Saturday agreed on a new three-year contract.

Members of UAW Local 751 plan to meet at noon Sunday to vote on ratification.

The agreement covers 1,800 men who have been on strike since Oct. 10.

Negotiators reached an agreement Nov. 30. But union members rejected it Dec. 2 on grounds some provisions including layoff, were unsatisfactory.

The new agreement's economic provisions are substantially the same as those in the rejected agreement. But members of the union bargaining committee indicated the job security provisions are better, and they are expected to recommend acceptance.

Extra Money From Air Force Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office says a General Motors Corp. subsidiary got an extra $975,000 out of an Air Force contract because its costs proved lower than military purchasers expected.

A GAO report to Congress said unreasonably high prices resulted from Air Force buyers awarding a $7,791,328 fixed price for their purchase in the absence of real competition and without checking enough on the costs the manufacturer would incur.

The report was made public today by the accounting office, which serves Congress as a watchdog over government spending.

GM's AC Spark Plug Division won the 1955 contract for 1,931 kits to modify navigation computer systems for bombers. It turned back $750,000 to the Air Force last year.

J. A. Anderson, AC's general manager, denied that the contract cost the government too much. He cited the $750,000 refund and said the Air Force had turned down a company offer to make the kits under an arrangement whereby the prices would be redetermined after completion of the contract.

GAO said that while some of AC's $975,000 saving may have been due to efficiency, most of it stemmed from AC's buying parts for the kits at prices well below the prices used in figuring the contract cost.

23 New Cardinals To Emerge Monday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Princes and prelates assembled Saturday for a consistory Monday which will create 23 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church and expand the College of Cardinals to 74 members. It has been limited to 70 members for 372 years. With six new arrivals, the cast for the solemn ceremonies is complete. The cardinals and all the cardinals-designate — including two from the United States — who will participate are here.

In the Vatican Palace final work was done to prepare for the secret session Monday in which the new cardinals formally will be elevated to the purple. In St. Peter's Basilica workmen were erecting tribunals, fixing candelabra, and hanging red drapes for the majestic public consistory next Thursday when the new cardinals will receive their galeros, or red hats.

Vatican City, a 107-acre state long used to pomp and ceremony, was bustling with anticipation.

The last of the non-Italian cardinals expected to participate in the consistory with Pope John XXIII came in by plane Saturday morning—Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, and Joseph Cardinal Frings, Archbishop of Cologne, and Joseph Cardinal Wendel, Archbishop of Munich. From Austria came Archbishop Franz Koenig of Vienna, the final cardinal-designate to arrive.

Twenty-two cardinals of the present college of 51 are expected to take part in the secret consistory opening at 9:30 a.m. — 3:30 a.m. EST—Monday.

Only present cardinals will be at this consistory. They will hear the Pope discourse on the reasons for appointing new cardinals, and then give their assent. Then special envoys will fan out to where the new cardinals will be waiting to receive their biglietos, or notifications of appointment.

The reception rooms of the two cardinals-designate from the United States, Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston and Archbishop John F. O'Hara of Philadelphia, will be in the North American College. Also awaiting the messenger there will be Amleto Cicognani, for 26 years apostolic delegate to the United States.

Sought Official Action Against Cult Leader

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (AP) — The two men who dynamited a religious cult's headquarters, killing 10, had sought official action against cult leader Krishna Venta 36 hours earlier.

Investigators learned Friday that Peter Kamenoff and Ralph Muller had gone to the state attorney general's office Monday and accused the self-styled messiah of a variety of offenses, including sexual intimacies with female members of the cult.

They also charged him with embezzling funds contributed to his Fountain of the World cult and with practicing medicine and performing marriages without a license.

"They asked me if I would prosecute if they got a confession," said James H. Mulvey of the attorney general's office. "I told them if he confessed to any crimes, I would."

Authorities believe the two men, both former cultists, went to Krishna's canyon retreat near Chatsworth carrying 20 sticks of dynamite in a canvas bag. They apparently tried to wring a confession from him and when he refused, blasted themselves, Khrishna and seven other cultists to death, the officials said.

All's Well With Balloon Small World On Ocean

LONDON (AP)—A British amateur radio operator said he received a message from the balloon Small World at p.m. Saturday reporting "all well."

The balloon left Santa Cruz de Tenerife, Canary Islands, Friday for a trip across the Atlantic with three men and a woman aboard.

British radio operators said earlier Saturday they had not received scheduled reports from the balloon but several operators in the Canary Islands said they had picked up messages that everything was fine.

Then late Saturday the British ham reported he had received the "all well" report.

"The balloon gave its position as 320 miles west of the Canary Islands," the operator said. "It reported fresh winds were blowing and all was well."

The last previous message received in Britain was just before midnight Friday night and there had been speculation among British radio operators that the balloon's radio sending equipment might have been out of order.

But several ham operators in the Canary area said they had received messages late Saturday giving the position of the balloon as 250 miles southwest of Tenerife. The message, they reported, said: "The Small World and all of us aboard are doing fine. We are following the planned course and our position is about 250 miles southwest of Tenerife."

The balloon left Santa Cruz early Friday on a free flight journey of about 3,000 miles to Barbados, B.W.I.

Arnol Elloart is chief of the aerial expedition, and his son Tim is radio operator. Colin and Rosemary Mudie, a husband and wife team, also are aboard to navigate and do other jobs.

"Drawing room" is a contraction of "withdrawing room," the original drawing room being a room to withdraw to.

Faces Court Hearing On Arson Charge Next Week

FLINT, Mich. (AP — Teamsters Union Business Agent Jack Thompson faces a court hearing next Thursday on an arson charge in a dry cleaning shop fire here, which police say led to the human torch death of Teamster official Frank Kierdorf.

Thompson, 41, previously released for lack of evidence after questioning in the Kierdorf case, was arrested Friday.

At his Municipal Court arraignment, Thompson demanded a hearing. He was released on $1,500 bond pending the hearing Dec. 18. Conviction of arson carries a maximum 10 years in prison.

State Atty. Gen. Paul Adams said he is convinced Thompson, business agent for Flint Teamsters Local 332, and Kierdorf set fire to a Flint cleaning shop Aug. 3 and that Kierdorf was burned accidentally during commission of the crime.

Kierdorf, 59, seared from head to foot, staggered into a hospital a few hours after the fire. He died four days later.

After his death, Thompson, a close friend of the victim, was picked up for questioning. He was released five days later for lack of evidence.

Genessee County Prosecutor James F. O'Rourke said four months of investigation had produced sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution of Thompson.

QUEMOY SHOOTING LIGHT

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Communist shelling of the Quemoys up to nightfall Saturday—an odd-numbered shooting day—was the lightest since the Reds launched their bombardment 113 days ago. Short bursts of fire let loose at Big Quemoy, Little Quemoy, and Tatan, totalling 170 shells up to 6 p.m.

Gordo Gives Life To Science

Army Fails To Recover Monkey Sent Into Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—A miniature monkey rode a rocket to the fringes of space Saturday, blazing a trail for man to follow.

He is missing and is presumed to have given his life to science.

The tiny, one-pound monkey, Gordo, survived a meteor-like ascent to about 300 miles above the earth but disappeared in the ocean when a technical mishap prevented recovery of the nose cone of an Army Jupiter missile.

The nose cone in which Gordo rode splashed into the Atlantic about 1,500 miles from the launching point at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The previously proved method for recovering a cone before it sinks failed this time.

The Navy worked with the Army in Saturday's experiment. Doctors of both services collaborated. The Navy provided three ships and several airplanes, deploying them in the target area where the plan was to pluck the nose cone out of the ocean before it could sink.

The big rocket booster, the compartment containing missile data equipment, and the nose cone in which Gordo rode were seen as they re-entered the earth's atmosphere separately high above the target zone. But, an announcement said, there was "a mishap in the tricky recovery gear," and the cone was lost in the sea.

Gordo, a South American squirrel monkey, was scarcely a handful in size. In his white furred face two brilliant black eyes peered out above a clown's nose.

The Army said this type of monkey was selected because it most closely resembles man of all animals which at the same time are of a size to fit into a capsule only about a foot square.

Before Gordo made his trip into space, he was given tests and prepared at the Navy's Pensacola, Fla., School of Aviation Medicine. About five hours before blast-off, Gordo's passenger compartment, with the monkey already in it, was put into the nose cone near its base.

Gordo wore a helmet into which were fitted electrical circuits used in measuring his reactions. He made the trip strapped to a foam rubber mattress.

The Army said the helmet was molded of clay similar to the modeling clay used by children. Embedded in the clay, which itself is a good conductor of elec-

Officials Risk Stiff Jail Term If Order Disobeyed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An Alabama judge and five other public officials may go to jail, perhaps for months, unless they abandon their refusal to produce evidence about Negro voter registration.

A federal judge noted as a courtroom disciplinarian has instructed them to surrender contested records to the U. S. Civil Rights Commission next Friday and submit to questioning about registration in their counties.

Despite their protests of judicial immunity, the officials could be put behind bars and kept there even while appealing the sentence to higher courts.

The festering crisis over the disputed right of the federal government to question the acts of registration officers has left troubled Macon County once again with no functioning machinery to register new voters.

Both surviving members of the Macon Board of Registrars — the third member died last month—resigned in protest against the civil rights hearing at which they and registrars in two other counties refused to testify.

The resignation of Chairman E. P. Livingston and Grady Rogers left prospective voters with no way to register in the county where Negroes outnumber white residents nearly 6-1.

Livingston and Rogers refused to testify under oath at the two-day hearing in Montgomery, protesting that they are judicial officers whose official conduct cannot be challenged. So did registrars W. A. Stokes and J. W. Spencer in Barbour County and M. T. Evans in Bullock.

They also appeared without their registration files explaining they had been impounded by state authorities. The same strategy likewise kept the commission from getting records in Dallas, Lowndes and Wilcox counties, but the refusal to testify did not extend to registrars in those counties.

The voting files in Barbour and Bullock were impounded by Circuit Judge George Wallace even before the commission subpoenaed them. Wallace ignored a demand to produce them at the hearing and refused even to appear himself.

Wallace and the five silent registration officials were all included in the federal court order issued Thursday by U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. in Montgomery.

Atty. Gen. John Patterson, Alabama's governor-elect who directed the resistance at the hearing, has promised to resist the court order. He contends the commission had no right to subpoena the voter registration records or question the official acts of the board members.

He said he will ask Johnson for a hearing next week to give him the chance to raise the legal issues before the Friday afternoon deadline.

Outlines UI Needs For Next Ten Years

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — University of Illinois president David D. Henry Saturday outlined the university's needs for the next 10 years and termed the need for increasing faculty salaries "the key concern" of the university.

Henry listed the university's basic financial requirements for the 1959-69 decade as $198,534,000 and said "this could be doubled."

He said this figure includes only the minimum needs, the critical requirements of the institution, and recognizes the fact there are other pressing demands for state funds.

The educator told a group of Illinois newspaper editors at a meeting sponsored by the East St. Louis Journal that sizable salary hikes are required in the next four bienniumnia to bring faculty salaries in line with comparable professions and other universities.

"The most serious problem facing higher education in the next decade," Henry said, "is recruiting enough personnel to staff classes for twice the present enrollment."

He said the university's building fund request for the 1959-61 biennium is $54,879,000, including northern 38 million dollars for the Champaign-Urbana campus, 10 million for the undergraudate division in Chicago and $6,724,000 for professional colleges in Chicago.

For the 1961-63 biennium the building request will be $68,340,000, including 35 million for the undergraduate division expansion in Chicago, $8,870,000 for the professional colleges and about 24½ million for Champaign-Urbana.

Henry did not give a breakdown on other university financial requirements.

Henry said the biennium system doesn't allow the university enough time to plan, hence the 10-year outline and the 1961-63 prediction.

Blinding Snow Plagues Oswego

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—Blinding snow, whipping off Lake Ontario, swept this snow-plagued city of 23,000 Saturday after a morning of bright sunshine.

From 5 to 10 inches of new snow was predicted. The winds could mean serious drifting.

Three inches of new snow fell early Saturday in the city, bringing the total fall this month to 80 inches—69 since the storms began seven days ago.

Heavy squalls may develop on both Lakes Ontario and Erie in the next 24 hours, the U.S. Weather Bureau advised, gloomy news to weary shovelers in the snow belts of central and western New York. Up to 10 inches of snow was expected to hit both areas.

Two to seven inches fell in the Lake Erie area overnight. Flurries continued throughout the day.

Bitter cold continued to grip the state, with temperatures down to 10 below zero forecast for Saturday night.

In Oswego, the thick white coat narrowed gradually under the glittering sun and the shovels of thousands. The snow cover settled to about 3½ feet deep.

Snow still stuck to many rooftops, and they began to leak as the snow melted. Thousands of driveways and sidewalks were plugged.

The main streets of the city were clear, however, and most secondary roads were passable. Social activities, at a standstill since the storms struck, began to perk up.

Christmas shoppers jammed the stores.

Young Prisoners Go On Rampage In Jersey Jail

JERSEYVILLE—Teen age prisoners being held in the Jersey county jail on charges of burglary in conjunction with the breaking and entering of the Robert Miller confectionery at Grafton went on a rampage during Thursday night.

Blankets assigned to them were ripped and mattresses were tumbled from the beds and efforts made to set them on fire. The youths had been allowed the freedom of the general jail corridors and they threw cupfuls of cold water on other prisoners sleeping in their bunks.

Efforts of other inmates of the jail to quell the behavior of the younger ones resulted in several bouts before county officers finally broke up the situation and restored order. The youths committing the damage and trouble were confined to their cells awaiting the arrival here of investigators from the State Department of Criminal Investigation of Springfield with equipment for giving lie detector tests.

The three youths arrested and held on charges filed in the county court implicated a fourth Grafton resident in the break-in. A complaint charging Kenneth Slaten of that city with burglary was filed Wednesday by Sheriff Howard Perdun under order of the State's Attorney, Claude J. Davis.

Slaten was arrested Wednesday evening and brought to the county jail in Jerseyville. He was arraigned on the burglary charge Thursday morning and a preliminary hearing set for December 29 at ten a.m. Slaten denied having participated in any manner in the Miller burglary and offered to take a lie detector test. In default of one thousand dollar bail, he was recommitted to the county jail pending the preliminary hearing.

'Philosophy Should Be Taught,' Says Guest Lecturer

"Philosophy should be taught in the nation's high schools if teachers are qualified and if students are not already taking a complete, serious course of study.

Dr. Douglas Morgan, Chairman of the philosophy department at Northwestern University, made this declaration Friday evening at a dinner meeting of 100 educators opening a two-day conference on teaching philosophy in high schools.

"Today some imaginative superintendents, school board members, principals and teachers believe that the bright student who is now being entertained or neglected instead of educated needs philosophy, and that knowledgeable teachers can guide this student toward enlightenment," he said. Dr. Morgan is Chairman of the government subcommittee investigating the extent of philosophy teaching in high schools.

However, he said that "for even the most able student, philosophy should not be made a substitute for this ideal core of his high school work — (mathematics, language, physical science, biology, English, and history). There is already too much latitude in too many high school options; philosophy should never be introduced as one more elective frill. Certainly it would be an egregious mistake to try to teach any philosophical material, except basic logic, to pupils who have not yet learned to read."

HS Experiment Successful

He pointed to the MacMurray College - Jacksonville High School course as an example of a successful beginning in such an experimental course.

These sentiments were echoed by Jewell A. Mann, Jacksonville Superintendent of Schools, who spoke briefly during the dinner program.

He said that "we were pleased to have such a course begun because we had been searching for one that would suit the academic talents of superior students." Mann added that there needs in general to be a closer working relationship between high schools and colleges of all types, and pointed to the MacMurray course as a step in this direction.

Lilly Expresses Optimism

Manning M. Pattillo, Associate Director for Lilly Endowment, Inc., Indianapolis, also expressed enthusiasm over the local experimental course and optimism in general over the future of such college-conducted courses in many high schools.

"Whereas most courses are weighted towards fact, the MacMurray-JHS course stresses ideas, as these philosophy courses should do."

It was the Lilly Endowment that first gave MacMurray $36,000 towards conducting the course, at the suggestion of President Louis W. Norris.

Norris, Students Speak

Dr. Norris opened the conference discussion, after being introduced by Dr. Leroy J. Garrett, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, who presided at the meeting. The MacMurray President described how he first got the idea for the course, with the effect that he hoped it would have on students. He commented that the results in the first year at JHS have more than satisfied his expectations.

Five present and former students of Dr. Garrett's "Principles of Philosophy" course gave personal testimonials as to its effect on them, following Dr. Norris' welcome of guests. They were Sara Watts, now at Illinois State Normal; Suzanne Carroll, Illinois College; Judy Schrader, MacMurray College; John Ward, JHS; and Dick Cody, JHS. They were all laudatory both of the course and of its teacher.

Jacksonville Educators

Jacksonville area educators attending were: John Agger, Principal, JHS; Dr. E. C. Bone, Board of Education; Archie Collins, Assistant Principal, Pittsfield High; John Conant, Principal, Junior High School, Jacksonville; Henry B. Corrie, County Superintendent of Scott County, Winchester; Lena I. Heim, Lafayette Elementary School, Jacksonville; Richard Heitholt, Principal, Pittsfield High; Wayne Herrin, Board of Education, Jacksonville; Marjorie Kanatzar, Board of Education, Jacksonville; G. H. Kimpling, Superintendent of Virginia High; Helen Kirchhoefer, Junior High School, Jacksonville; Wilfrid E. Rice, Morgan County Superintendent of Schools.

Maurine Self, English teacher, JHS; Darrel Spang, Social Science teacher, Winchester; Malcolm F. Stewart, Professor of Philosophy, Illinois College; Robert Stubbs, Franklin High School; Alvin Unland, Assistant Superintendent of Schools of Morgan County; Iver F. Yeager, Dean, Illinois College.

Educators also came from Michigan and Oklahoma, in addition to traveling to Jacksonville from various parts of Illinois.

Fabulous Hope Diamond With Its History Of Tragedy Comes To Rest In Smithsonian

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Hope diamond has been a lodestone of tragedy, greed and violent death for more than three centuries. Now, at last, the jinx may be ended.

The fabulous gem has come to rest — perhaps forever — in the Smithsonian Institution Hall of Gems here in the nation's capital.

Big off-season crowds already flocking to see the million-dollar diamond indicate it will become one of the federal museum's top attractions.

Described as looking like "a tiny fragment of midnight sky, fallen to earth and still aglow with star gleam," the oval-shaped diamond was donated to the U. S. government by Harry Winston, wealthy New York jeweler.

Smithsonian officials, though reluctant to dim the Hope's storied glamor, privately suspect that some of its early lore is romantic moonshine dreamed up by wily gem merchants or their press agents.

Whatever the truth, one thing appears certain: the Brahmin priest who reputedly stole the gem from a Burmese temple idol—and thereby started the chain of tragic events—had an easier time lifting the rare blue stone than would any 20th century thieves who might try to snatch it from the Smithsonian.

The Hall of Gems is studded with hidden thief-detection gadgets ready to flash the alarm not only to the captain of the guard's office on the ground floor but also to an "uptown security headquarters."

"I don't know how the detection system works myself, but I know this—we've got maximum security," says Capt. William Stiles, captain of the guard.

"If you bump into one of those gem cases, even if you lean against it, I'll guarantee we'll get a phone call here in the guardroom within 30 seconds."

Capt. Stiles says two armed guards are always hovering within a few yards of the Hope diamond. Others roam back and forth through the exhibition hall, on the third floor of the Natural History Building.

Across the centuries men have risked — and sometimes lost — their lives to possess the tragedy-plagued stone.

The priest who stole it from the idol was tortured to death for the crime.

It is fairly well established that Jean Baptiste Tavernier (1605-1695), a noted French traveler, originally bought the diamond in India and sold it to King Louis XIV of France in 1686.

Enriched by the sale, Tavernier purchased a barony and settled down to a life of ease, but his dissolute son squandered the money and the old man, hoping to recoup his fortune, returned to India. There, according to most accounts, he was devoured by wild dogs. The Encyclopedia Britannica says he died in Moscow.

At any rate, Louis XIV had the diamond cut down from its original 112¾ carats to 67½ carats, and as part of the royal crown jewels it was known as the "French Blue."

Thereafter came a long chronicle of ill fortune in the lives of those who touched the stone:

Nicholas Fouquet, a French government official, borrowed it for a state ball and later was executed by Louis XIV.

King Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, who had inherited the diamond, were beheaded by French revolutionists.

Along with the rest of the French crown jewels the "Blue" vanished during the revolution in 1792. Several decades later it turned up in London — chipped down to 44½ carats in an attempt to disguise it—and Henry Thomas Hope, an Irish squire and banker, bought it in 1830 for $90,000.

From that time onward it has been known as the Hope diamond.

The curse next struck Hope's grandson, Lord Francis Pelham Clinton, who died penniless. Clinton's wife, the American actress May Yohe, deserted him and wound up scrubbing floors.

Sold at auction at Christie's in London in 1867, with other gems of the Hope collection, the diamond eventually found its way into the hands of Simon Montharides, a trader, who sold it to Sultan Abdul Hamid II of Turkey for $400,000 in 1908.

The Sultan was dethroned by the Young Turks revolt in 1909 and died in exile. Subaya, the Sultan's favorite, who wore the diamond, was slain. Montharides was killed with his wife and child in a fall over a precipice.

The late Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, famed Washington social leader and heiress to a 100-million-dollar gold mining fortune, bought the Hope gem in 1912 for $180,000.

Her first son Vincent was killed by an automobile in 1918. Her husband Ned McLean became involved in the Teapot Dome scandals and died in a mental hospital. In 1946, her daughter Evalyn, wife of ex-Sen. Robert Rice Reynolds, died from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Mrs. McLean herself became a morphine addict, according to her autobiography, and died in 1947 after reputedly turning down an offer of two million dollars for the Hope diamond.

In her will, Mrs. McLean requested that the diamond be kept in her estate for 20 years, if possible. Instead, it was sold to pay taxes on the estate.

New York gem merchant Winston, who says he rejected several offers to buy the Hope before giving it to the government, scoffs at the legendary curse attached to the jewel.

"The people jinxed the stone, it didn't jinx them," he says.

"The Hope is like a beautiful day in June . . . so soft, so blue. It isn't cold. It lives. It talks to you . . . It sings . . ."

Civil Defense Equipment For Greene County

WHITE HALL—A Civil Defense program was presented Friday, sponsored by the F.H.A., at the high school. Sergeant Royal Frazier of the Civil Defense Corps in Greene county was in charge of the program and presented four members of the Auxiliary Police of Carrollton, who assisted him.

He gave a brief summary of equipment that is available to residents in the county. A film was shown, Nike for the Defense of Your Country. The film dealt with Nike, a guided missile, and the men who operate it. Using a small doll, Sgt. Frazier gave a demonstration of a portable iron lung. He then put a portable iron lung on Bob Stewart to demonstrate how it was put together and would look on a person wearing it. This was of particular interest as a Nike base is now being built at Grafton, Ill.

A second film, "Evacuation of Civilians," showed the Army's part in finding shelter and food for refugees in foreign lands.

The audience was shown a first aid kit made by the Carrollton Auxiliary police containing bandages, blankets, lights, splints, a cot and a small first aid kit. All first aid equipment of the Civil Defense Corps in Greene county can be used by anyone in the county, at any time upon request.

Smooth Ice And Warm Fire At Nichols Park Lake

The center of attraction at Nichols Park Lake Friday night seemed to be the nice warm fire provided by park maintenance men for the 'first nighter' crowd of skaters. Parking spaces were at a premium near the concession building. A lively crowd of hearty winter sport enthusiasts wore old fashioned "long johns" and earbobs to ward-off the near-zero temperature.

A large section of the ice was cleaned with a tractor and snowplow by park officials before the opening.

Many local residents sought the enjoyment of silver blades gliding along the ice. Spectators are also welcome to the area—it is possible to sit in the warmth of your automobile and count the spills and watch the thrills of skaters in action any evening.

Park officials have a policeman on duty at all times, musical selections are played over a loudspeaker system, the area is lighted and a warm fire is provided for energetic skaters.

Two Cars Collide On North Main St.

A car driven by Georgia Holmes, 20, 1075 North Main, and a car driven by John W. Carver, 74, of Peoria, collided at the intersection of Oak Street and North Main St. Friday at 5:28 p. m. causing slight damage to both autos.

Miss Holmes received a bruised hand in the crash. The front of the Carver car received damage and the rear of the Holmes auto was damaged. Both autos were driven from the scene under their own power.

City police attended at the scene of the accident.

Hold Rites For McGlasson Infant

Funeral services for Harvey Edwin McGlasson, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McGlasson, were held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Williamson funeral home with the Rev. William J. Boston officiating. Alvin Middendorf sang several selections accompanied by Mrs. Francis Angel at the organ.

Burial will be at a later date in the Memorial Lawn cemetery. The interment services will take place upon the arrival of several relatives.

Julius Pittman Dies In Iowa

Julius A. Pittman, husband of the former Pauline Ludwig of Jacksonville, passed away at General Hospital in Des Moines, Iowa, Friday at 6:15 p.m. Mrs. Pittman preceded him in death in 1957. Graveside services will be held Monday at 3 p.m. in Diamond Grove cemetery. The body will arrive at the Williamson funeral home at 10 a.m. Monday and friends may call until time for the services at 3 p.m.

One of the world's few international ski areas is located at Eastport, Idaho, on the Idaho-Canadien border.

IC Skaters From Far And Near

Students from Illinois College (and prospective student) visited the opening of skating at Nichols Park to try their favorite winter sport.

Left to right: Bob Kirk, 12, a student at Washington Elementary school and a trophy winner already in speed skating; Ross Thornton, Park Ridge; Rhaban Hone, Paderborn, Germany; Truman Cope, Springfield; and Emory Kaligis, Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

Hone served a full tour of duty with the U.S. Army then decided to come to Jacksonville to receive his education. Kaligis has been skating since he was able to walk. Both boys enjoy the sport they learned in their native lands.

Local Ice Speedster

There was some doubt in the camerman's mind whether to jump out of the way or snap the picture—after brushing the ice spray from the lens of the camera, I realized that there was no need to worry.

Norbert Kirk of Jacksonville is shown making a quick stop at the Nichols Park lake. Kirk is a former professional speed skater from Detroit and an avid ice skating fan. His skating starts at the first freeze and ends with the last thaw. At times, he builds a private rink in the back yard just in case there isn't enough time to visit the park.

Phone Calls To Santa Start Monday Night

Children in the area will again be able to telephone Santa's North Pole Headquarters this year starting Monday, Dec. 15 through Friday, the 19th. The Jolly Old Fellow or one of his helpers will answer kiddies phoning Chestnut 5-2121 from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening during the five day period.

This is the third straight year this service has been provided through the cooperation of the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce and General Telephone Company. Over 800 combined calls were received during the pre-Christmas service in 1957 and 1956.

Three lines will be in constant service during the two hour period each evening manned by four Jaycee helpers. Santa's helpers taking the calls from the children keep a pad and pencil and take names and addresses of the children and notations on unusual requests or instruction.

Includes Large Area

In previous years not only Jacksonville children but those living in adjoining communities take advantage of the direct telephone line from Jacksonville to the North Pole. Calls were received in '56 and '57 from White Hall, Murrayville, New Berlin, Arcadia, Woodson and Literberry.

This is one of the most pleasant projects for the Jaycees and each 'Santa's Helper' concludes his conversation with a reminder to each caller to 'be good and —Merry Christmas!'

TREND GENERALLY DOWN ON GRAINS

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A few plus signs were sprinkled through grain futures prices on the Board of Trade for the week but the trend generally was decidedly downward.

The few gains mainly were in small fractions of a cent while the declines ran to around three cents at the extremes. December corn was the steadiest contract on the board.

Brokers generally were surprised that selling of wheat in the southwest by both producers and elevator interests continued into this week at a rather liberal rate. Some of the grades sold at prices as much as 10 cents a bushel under the government loan figure.

Although commercial stocks in Chicago have been declining, the fact that exporters and some processors could obtain supplies direct from country stations had a bearish effect on the futures.

Colder weather was believed to be responsible to a large extent for the reduced grain movements but the major reason perhaps still was the fact that nearly all corn is in good storable condition and the growers are in sufficiently strong financial position to withhold the grain until the new tax year.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅜-3 cents lower than a week ago, December $1.92⅝-¾; corn ¼ higher to 1⅜ lower, December old type contract $1.14⅝-¾; oats ⅛ higher to ⅝ lower, December 65⅝; rye 2-3⅛ cents lower, December $1.29¾-⅞, and soybeans 1¼ higher to 1⅞ lower, January $2.16⅝-¼.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Shipper demand for butcher hogs of No. 1 and No. 2 grades under 220 lbs was better this week than the supply could meet at times and the market for that group was 25 cents higher but heavier weights were as much as 25 cents lower and sows 50 cents lower.

Prices had been steady to fairly strong through most of the week but on Friday most advances were cancelled by the heaviest receipts of the year for that day.

The slaughter steers supply was the largest in seven weeks and 18 per cent larger than a week ago with some offerings of low choice grade and below unsold and carried over for Monday's market.

The average weight of slaughter steers again averaged very heavy and met some buyer resistance. Monday's average of 1,206 lbs was the heaviest of the year. Offerings under 1,100 lbs held mostly steady while heavyweights declined as much as 50 cents.

Sheep receipts were off about 17 per cent from the previous week but still relatively large and prices of slaughter lambs sagged at $1.50 a hundredweight. Prices also were influenced somewhat by a drop of $2 to $3 in the carcass lamb market. The supply consisted of about 95 per cent slaughter lambs with a large majority of them wooled kind.

FCC Accused Of Disregard Of Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission was accused by coal industry representatives Saturday of "absolute disregard of the law" in allowing natural gas pipeline systems to expand into coal consuming areas.

In a statement prepared for submission to a congressional committee, the National Coal Assn. and Fuels Research Council, Inc., said:

"We could cite case after case in which temporary authorizations were granted to pipeline companies to construct facilities costing millions of dollars where the only emergency present was one created by the pipeline company itself..."

"We think the commission has abused its discretion," the statement said, adding:

"The coal and railroad interests are and have been greatly concerned over the rapid expansion of natural gas service into their primary coal markets. Tremendous tonnages of coal have been displaced by natural gas and the end is nowhere in sight."

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)— A vigorous upsurge in Christmas buying put new zip in the nation's economy this week.

Heavy snow smothered Christmas sales in some cities and a newspaper strike stymied sales promotion efforts in New York.

But for the nation as a whole the outlook was for a 3 to 4 per cent rise over last year's Christmas volume.

Electric power consumption climbed to a record high of more than 13 billion kilowatthours as the main streets and shopping centers of America turned on the Christmas lights.

Detroit contributed to the winter upturn. Auto production again topped the 140,000 mark and if Chrysler Corp. plants hadn't been hobbled by strikes, the total would have reached 150,000. Chevrolet and Rambler set new production highs.

Steel output was the highest since October.

Likewise encouraging were the latest figures on jobs and paychecks. Unemployment held steady from mid-October to mid-November instead of showing the usual seasonal rise. Increased hiring by industry offset cold weather cutbacks in farming and construction. Average weekly earnings of factory workers punched to an all-time high.

Stock sales totaled 19,094,914 shares in the latest week compared to 17,565,462 in the previous week and 11,487,210 shares in the same 1957 week.

Bond sales had a par value of $32,377,500 in the latest week, $31,890,000 in the previous week and $30,035,000 in the corresponding week a year ago.

The news about employment was good for just about everybody except the 3,800,000 Americans who wanted work and couldn't get it. Unemployment was less than 3,200,000 a year ago.

College students who expect to graduate next June may be offered slightly higher starting salaries than those who got their sheepskins this year. And jobs should be more plentiful for them.

So says Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., after a survey of business hiring intentions. Starting salaries will run about two per cent higher, averaging $480 a month for engineers, $422 for accountants, $419 for salesmen and $413 for business trainees.

How does 1959 look to the leaders of U.S. business? Ten of the nation's top corporate executives made their views known this week at a forum sponsored by the First National Bank of Chicago. The consensus: It will be a good year in many ways, but it will lack the heady stimulus of a full-fledged boom in capital spending. Here are some typical comments:

Charles H. Kellstadt, president, Sears, Roebuck & Co.: The new year should see a continued but gradual upturn from the 1957-58 recession. By mid-year, the rate of recovery may slow down. Prices may go higher.

Willie D. Gale, chairman, Commonwealth Edison Co.: the utility industry in the first six months of 1959 should smash all prior records.

Less hopeful was H. C. Turner Jr., president of Turner Construction Co., who declared: "I am not optimistic as many of the published reports and I do not anticipate boom conditions in construction."

Briefly over the business scene: American Motors Corp. will spend 10 million dollars boosting the capacity of its Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., plants. The company says the factories can't keep up with demand for Rambelers. . . Khrushchev touched of a ripple of selling in the stock market this week. . . . U.S. government statisticians say businessmen have cut back previously announced expansion plans. . . .

Starting Monday you'll be able to buy voting stock in the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.—The "A. & P."—for the first time in the big food chain's 99-year-history. . . . Pipeline companies are happy about the so-called "Memphis Case" decision which gives them greater leeway in boosting natural gas rates. . . . Output of the nation's mines and factories increased two per cent last month. . . . Remember the hula hoop craze? It's reaching boom proportions in France. Frenchmen are buying 20,000 hula hoops a day. And three buyers out of four are grown-ups.

ARMY FAILS TO RECOVER MONKEY SENT INTO SPACE

tricity, were electrical circuits to record reactions. The clay was used to insure a close fit.

The instruments attached to the monkey and fitted elsewhere in the rocket had several purposes. One of these was to determine "the basic requirements for survival and consciousness in the primate family, of which man is a member, during rocket travel."

The Army announcement added that data gathered would be a "basis for further experimental studies."

This seemed to mean that later bigger monkeys or other animals may be used in Army space flight tests. The nose cone of a Jupiter missile — which for military purposes would house a hydrogen warhead — is comparatively roomy. It probably would be big enough for a man, although perhaps not with the capsule he would need to protect him against heat.

The Army said the monkey was named Gordo—meaning "fat" in Spanish — after a popular Mexican comic strip character. Some scientists at the Pensacola School of Aviation Medicine also had nicknamed him "Little Old Reliable" because he stood up so well in preflight experiments.

The Army announced six hours later it had given up the search for the monkey's little space ship.

For about 13 minutes an automatic radio transmitter which was linked to microphones, thermometers, and other equipment sent back data on how Gordo was doing—"valuable scientific data," scientists called it.

In general, the radioed data showed only mild changes in Gordo's physical condition as the Jupiter roared away from earth and arched out beyond the atmosphere.

His heart beat stepped up slightly as the pull of gravity multiplied in the first phase of flight but remained generally normal thereafter.

For about eight minutes, while the rocket was out beyond the atmosphere and curving along an arc which counteracted gravity, Gordo went through an experience that will come to man in space—weightlessness. The 500 seconds this condition prevailed, said the Army, far exceeded any similar period for monkeys used in previous tests.

Monkeys as well as mice have been used in previous weightless condition tests and in actual rocket firings. These included the 200,000-foot-high shoot of two much bigger monkeys in an Air Force experiment in 1953. Both of these monkeys survived without trouble.

The Russians put a dog into one of their satellites and claimed it lived about a week while the vehicle orbited the earth.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP)—Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 14,000 hogs, 22,000 cattle and 3,500 sheep.

SNOW NOT THERE, SO IT IS CREATED

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Robert Bakers of Dallas hoped for snow and a pretty white yard for their party Saturday night.

It didn't snow.

So Baker, a Dallas attorney and his wife, created their own snowstorm.

All afternoon an ice company crushed ice and blew it over the Baker lawn and shrubs.

Guests found the yard covered by a soft mantle of white. It tied in nicely with the "White Christmas" party theme.

Husband And Wife Philosophy Team Speaks Saturday

The world may well be on the verge of a general "resurrection" of philosophy, and teaching it in the high school holds great promise of furthering this eventuality.

Harry and Bonaro Overstreet, the famed husband and wife philosophy team, said this Saturday morning at MacMurray College before 100 educators and townspeople gathered for a conference on teaching philosophy in high schools.

Employing the colloquy method of discourse—by which they both speak by interrupting each other—the Overstreets praised the MacMurray-Jacksonville high school philosophy course as one means of returning it to a place of central importance in American life.

They declared that "for various reasons philosophy in the colleges and universities has, in large measure, become little more than an exercise in abstruse linguistics and has ceased thereby to have much functional value in the lives of students. It has also ceased to have any large measure of influence upon American life."

"Philosophic questions are natural to boys and girls of high school age," the Overstreets said. "Perhaps one of the gravest faults of our culture is that little or no provision is made for exploring them. The philosophy classes in the high schools may well become places of discussion of the deep questions that are involved in the maturing of our lives. These classes may become new areas of growth where adolescents get their first chance to see life steadily and see it whole."

"What Is Philosophy?"

Dr. Overstreet began the colloquy by asking the question: "What is philosophy," and then proceeding, briefly, to answer it.

"It is a special way of going at things," he said. "And it is a way that has involved the energizing of some of the greatest minds we have had on earth," said the man who was chairman of the philosophy department at City College of New York for 30 years, and who has written many books, including "The Mature Mind."

Mrs. Overstreet described two "great ways in which our human minds try to bring order out of the multifariousness of life, try to go below the surface of life. These are the ways of analysis and synthesis."

Although the 19th century and most of the 20th has been one of the great periods of analysis, she said, "we find in our journeys across the land that there is something restless in people that is saying: 'Must we not again get at the great synthesizing process? Must we not again get at the meaning instead of the purely analytical.'

"We may be returning to the great synthetic tradition of putting the pieces together and trying to see where we are, what everything is all about, and how we cope at being humans."

She pointed to the MacMurray-JHS course as "symbolizing the next great age that is dawning"—that of asking questions related to the basic meaning of life. This is the synthetic approach that characterized the great age of philosophy centuries ago.

Personality A Great Influence

Harry Overstreet emphasized that "perhaps the most enlivening approach to philosophy would be that in terms of personality. I can remember being greatly thrilled when I first met Ralph Waldo Emerson. There was a man that gave me a living, going system of values."

Bonaro Overstreet, who spoke later in the day on poetry, said that "We have the feeling that the prime occupation of the human being at all times is taking the impact of life and learning to handle it. Learning what can be done with the experience of being human. Learning what the experience of being human requires of such resource that the individual can bring."

"If I were teaching a high school philosophy class, I would try to give students a creative image of themselves handling the impact and possibilities of their world by letting them have companionship with those people that would make them feel that life looks wonderfully different. It looks wonderfully different after you have companioned with Socrates. He was a person who set an image of what life was like when it was being grandly and very decently lived. I would say that that is the true history of philosophy. Philosophy is the record of personality taking hold of life and wrestling with it and seeing how you come out with meaning."

Dr. Norris Leads Panel

President Louis W. Norris of MacMurray, who formerly was Chairman of DePauw University's philosophy department and who has written a book on the subject, led a panel discussion Saturday morning on the question of moral and ethical teaching in public schools.

Participating were Ethel Beryl Miller, Chairman of the Moral and Spiritual Values Committee and Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction, Springfield; James Miller, English teacher, Benton Harbor high school, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Bob Lewis, English teacher, Thomas A. Edison high school, Tulsa, Okla.; N. P. Jacobson, Chairman, Department of Philosophy and Religion, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.; and Dr. Leroy J. Garrett, Assistant Professor of Philosophy at MacMurray, who teaches the JHS course and who was general coordinator of the conference.

Featuring the first day's program, Friday evening, was an address by Douglas Morgan, Chairman of the Department of Philosophy at Northwestern University. He advocated teaching philosophy in high schools if teachers are qualified and if students do not already have a complete, serious course of study.

One Of Abe's Favorite Books Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of Abraham Lincoln's favorite books, the pages of which he inadvertently singed one night, has been presented to the Library of Congress.

It is a collection of humorous pieces by David Ross Locke, whose writing under the pen name of Petroleum V. Nasby were said by contemporaries to be among Lincoln's favorites. One spoke of him shaking "all over with gleeful emotion" while reading Nasby.

The library announced Saturday night it has been given an 1864 copy of "The Nasby Papers" by Frederic N. Towers, local attorney, who in turn received it as a gift in 1931 from Mary Harlan (Mrs. Robert Todd) Lincoln, the Civil War president's daughter-in-law.

REDS ACCUSE AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Russia accused the West Saturday of plotting to sink the Geneva nuclear test ban talks.

Moscow radio—quoting a Tass dispatch—said the British and American delegates "have set forth a number of conditions and subterfuges aimed at bringing to nought what agreement has already been reached."

Moscow said there is no certainty that the three-power talks "will result in the taking of positive decisions in line with the interests of general peace and security."

WORLD TENSIONS CAN BE EASED ONLY IF WE BOW TO SOVIET UNION

FOLO SAYS TENSION CAN. . . . map their strategy on Berlin.

The critical question is a simple one: Will the West in response to the Soviet notes once again insist on free all-German elections as the basis for East-West talks on settling the status of Germany?

The answer to this question rests largely with Dulles. He is reported undecided between positions said to be taken by the British and the West Germans. Britain wants talks broadened with the Russians to include free elections. West Germany wants the Berlin issue settled first.

The meeting of U. S., British, French, and West German foreign ministers, together with Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt available for consultation, was specially called two days before the start of the NATO meeting.

It was arranged after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had announced Nov. 27 the Russians were ending their part of the four-power occupation of Berlin within six months.

Informants speaking for all four Western powers were agreed that the Paris meeting will turn down any agreement to the Soviet proposal for forcing U. S., British, and French occupation forces from Berlin.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market tried for another record high this week but missed narrowly.

Midweek saw a vigorous upward drive following some fairly sluggish consolidation the week before. The averages might have hit a new peak, despite profit-taking, if not for the heightening Berlin crisis which led to nervous selling on Thursday.

The market was at its best on Wednesday when the second biggest daily jump of the year was achieved. This session was marked by solid gains of blue chip stocks as well as continued activity in secondary issues. The move served notice that the big institutional investors thought prices were not going much lower, not for the present, anyway.

This big leap was enough to put the market ahead on the week and chalk up the second straight weekly rise.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.50 to $206.90. At its best closing high on Wednesday the AP average stood at $207.50, only 20 cents below the record of $207.70 reached Nov. 20.

The Dow Jones industrial average on Wednesday closed at $564.98, not much below its record of $567.44.

Weekly turnover of 19,094,914 shares was the biggest in three weeks and a further indication that the market was not running out of gas. A total of 744 issues rose and 342 declined this week.

U.S. Government and corporate bonds moved lower this week. Investment quality corporates bucked the trend by posting an advance. So did foreign bonds to a lesser degree. Utilities were down sharply, however, followed by rails and industrials.

Corporate trading mounted to $32,377,500 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $31,890,000 the previous week and $30,035,000 for the corresponding week in 1957.

PRESS DOOR-TO-DOOR SEARCH FOR KILLER OF FIVE IN FAMILY

Pendergast said he found Harrison waiting for him outside the house when he got home from work Friday night. The youth had a revolver and forced him to drive toward San Diego, 16 miles distant. On the edge of town Pendergast was ordered to stop at a service station rest room so they could trade clothing. The father grabbed Harrison's weapon, but as he did so the youth managed to escape down an alley.

Then Pendergast drove home, still ignorant of the tragedy that awaited him there. Neighbors said he entered and then ran out and rolled on the front yard in distress, screaming, "he's killed my wife and babies."

Pendergast was confined in a psychiatric ward Saturday. Detective Sgt. Frank Le Count said it was feared he might try to take his own life from grief.

Harrison, picked up by Pendergast while hitchhiking Nov. 2, was the fourth young man the family had so befriended.

Maroa Wins JHS Tournament, 60-56; Highlanders Triumph

Bulldogs Captalize At Charity Line To Sink Host Crimsons

By STAN SPOTTS

Maroa's outshooters clicked in the second half and the smaller but game Bulldogs hit 26 of 39 shots from the free-throw line to sink John Chapman's Crimsons in the finals of the JHS invitational tournament Saturday night, 60-56.

Jacksonville's height bottled up the middle in the first half which enabled the Jacks to control the boards but it was a different story in the nip and tuck last two quarters. The Bulldogs held their own under the boards and found a one-two scoring punch in guards Clyde Odle and Phil Odle, who tallied 17 points apiece. Their outshooting definitely was one of the turning points in Maroa's favor.

After trailing for three quarters Maroa made its bid for the victory by keeping pace with the Crimsons in the final quarter, which was a duzzy. The final eight minutes saw the lead change hands nine different times, all in a matter of four minutes and 11 seconds of play.

Dave Bone, who provided quite a show on offense and defense for the fine turnout, kept Jacksonville in the contest to open the final quarter with three consecutive buckets. From there on, it was just a matter of who would outscore the other. Gary McClung finally put Maroa ahead to stay on a rebound tally with 1:48 left in the game. Trailing by one point at this stage, 56-57, a bad pass by the Crimsons probably cost them a chance for the tourney title. Maroa went into a stall at this point and froze the ball for 39 seconds before a Crimson fouled Clyde Odle.

Odle sank two free throws to 'ice' the sixth straight win without a loss for Herm Edwards' aggregation. Wilson ended Maroa's scoring with a free throw with :37 seconds left in the game.

A close observation shows Jacksonville failed to muster a single tally in the closing two minutes

It was a close affair throughout the game with never more than five points separating the two clubs. A 10-footer by Dave Allison in the first period broke a 9-9 deadlock and put JHS out in front to stay for the remainder of the first half. The tie-breaker came with 2:07 left in the initial frame.

Maroa pulled to within one tally of the Crimsons, 24-23, with 1:20 left before halftime on a drive-in by Phil Odle. Then JHS' Jim Keller was awarded a one and one attempt and he hit the first one but his second one was too hard. Dave Bone was falling away from the bucket when he fielded Keller's shot with one hand and his push-in attempt registered two points and a 27-23 lead for the Jacks. Bone also made two more points from the charity line just before intermission to keep JHS on top, 29-26.

The third stanza continued to be close as the score was knotted three times. Maroa garnered its first lead since the initial quarter but couldn't hold it. The lead came with 2:25 on a bucket by Phil Odle but tallies by Merritt Norvell, John Bourn and Jim Keller kept JHS on top by one after three quarters, 46-45.

Dave Bone's most impressive showing to date gave him individual scoring honors for the game with 21 markers. His defensive work in the first half on Gary McClung kept Maroa out of the key-hole and forced the Bulldogs to shoot long. Maroa didn't connect in the first half whereas in the last half its guards just didn't miss very often.

In the consolation game, Edwardsville claimed its second win of the season over Highland, 83-59. It was Highland's sixth loss without a win while the victory evened Edwardsville's record at three and three.

Principal John Agger made the presentations of the trophies following the championship playoff, and 25 seconds of play, that final scoring came on a pair of charity tosses by Dave Allison.

Wisconsin Ends Losing Streak; Beats Notre Dame

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin basketball team broke an 11-game losing streak Saturday night by defeating Notre Dame 56-54 in their first action after veteran Badger coach Bud Foster was hanged in effigy.

It was the first victory in four starts this season for the Badgers whose losing streak dated back to Jan. 20.

Wisconsin was in front 34-31 at halftime but the score was tied eight times in the second half before Wisconsin took a 52-49 edge with four minutes remaining and then went into a stall.

The Irish tied the count at 53-53 on Bob Bradtke's 11th field goal, but Ray Gross tipped in a basket and Bob Barneson added a free throw while Tom Reinhart scored a free toss for Notre Dame.

At the instant of the final whistle, Badger players hoisted Foster onto their shoulders as fans poured onto the floor. A dummy with Foster's name on it was found hanging from a lamp post on the campus Friday night.

CLOSE FOUR SCHOOLS IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A special inspection tour prompted by the death of 92 persons in a Chicago parochial school fire has disclosed fire hazards serious enough to warrant closing four schools in Philadelphia.

Barnet Liberman, commissioner of licenses and inspections, said Saturday one of the four schools already had remedied its hazards. He said the other three, including a parochial school, had promised quick action on the violations and would not be shut down.

PEDAL RIGHT OVER IT!

LONDON (AP) — The way to beat a traffic jam is to pedal right over it. That's the prospect held forth by Moscow radio in announcing Anatoly Ivanyuta of Riga, Latvia, has designed a model foot-powered aircycle capable of 37 to 43 or so m.p.h. in the air—"suitable for sports and for transport."

Purdue Steals 83-82 Win From Evansville

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's Harvey Austin stole the basketball and scored a layup with 17 seconds to play, as the Boilermakers defeated Evansville College Saturday night 83-82.

Evansville, whose Ed Smallwood topped all scorers with 30 points, came from 17 points back to catch Purdue in the second half. The lead changed hands seven times in the last three minutes before Austin's basket won the game.

Purdue, defeated only by Kansas State in four starts, had a 44-34 margin at the half. It ran the advantage to 54-37 before Evansville's aces caught fire.

Five men scored in double figures for the Boilermakers, topped by Willie Merriweather's 23.

Cavaliers Upset West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W Va (AP)—Virginia's unheralded Cavaliers pulled a shocking 75-72 basketball upset over previously unbeaten West Virginia Saturday night.

The Cavaliers, who led all the way, scored their first victory in their last five outings and the second of the season. Paced by the deadly outside shooting of Paul Adkins, Virginia held an 18-point lead at one time in the first half.

Adkins finished with 25 points, 14 of them in the first half.

The defeat, first for West Virginia in six games, overshadowed a brilliant individual performance by the Mountaineers' Jerry West, who led all scorers with 31 points.

West Virginia ran into a red hot Virginia effort in the first half. This, plus the Mountaineers' own mistakes, proved too much to overcome in a belated second-half rally.

Trailing 48-61 midway in the second 20 minutes, the Mountaineers made a run at Virginia, outscoring them 13-1 to cut the deficit to 61-62. But then Adkins came through with a field goal to get the Cavaliers rolling again.

The union has 200 members at the Garland plant.

A UAW source said the workers agreed to a 10-cent cut in their current hourly average wage of $3.35. They also gave up three paid holidays and some fringe benefits.

Ice Jam Traps 14 Ships Between Montreal, Sorel

MONTREAL (AP) — An ice jam trapped 14 ships Saturday between Montreal and Sorel in their 800-mile race to the open waters of the Atlantic before a freeze up.

With temperatures dropping to 10 below zero, two Canadian icebreakers were making slow progress in battering their way upriver from Trois-Rivieres in an attempt to clear a channel.

The worst ice conditions in 25 years along the inland St. Lawrence River route found at least 30 ocean freighters stuck or kept in port. No immediate relief was in sight.

New Yorkers Go Without Big Sunday Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — New Yorkers went without their big Sunday newspapers — which would have been fat with Christmas advertising — because of the five-day strike that closed the papers.

Representatives of both the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union and the Publishers Assn. of New York City came out of Saturday night's brief negotiating session blaming delay in settlement on each other.

But another special session was set for Sunday. Joseph F. Finnegan, national director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, was to fly here from Washington to take a hand in the meeting.

Asher Schwartz, attorney for the deliverymen, angrily charged after Saturday night's session broke up that the publishers association was retarding a settlement of the multimillion-dollar strike.

Schwartz said the union was shocked at a new management demand calling for postponement of the effective date of any new contract to the date newspapers are printed again.

At the same time, a spokesman for the publishers called the union's demand for shorter working hours "fantastic."

Bing's Boys Help Raise Money For Disabled Children

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three of Bing's boys harmonized like their dad Friday night to help raise $50,000 for the aid of emotionally disturbed children.

Phillip, Dennis, and Gary Crosby played princes to Donald O'Connor's king in a spicy version of "The King and I" before a ballroom filled with movie stars.

The occasion was the Thalians' annual Christmas ball and the ultra-sophisticated take-off on the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic brought a curtain speech from O'Connor.

"We open tomorrow at Lincoln Heights Jail," he said.

Debbie Reynolds, president of the young movieland charity organization, said the group had raised $20,000 from the fancy $25-a-plate ball, plus $30,000 more from ads in a souvenir booklet.

Agent, Ex-Con Battle For Gun; Ex-Con Loses

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A wounded FBI agent and an ex-convict wanted for shooting a policeman battled hand-to-hand for a gun Saturday, with the struggle ending in the convict's death.

The agent, Irving Dean, 39, of Haddonfield, N.J., was shot in the thigh by Weldon A. Walls, 22, as Dean and four other FBI men burst through the locked door to an apartment where Walls had been hiding out.

Walls, naked, leaped from bed, grabbed a .32 caliber revolver from a dresser, and fired at the on-charging Dean, sending a bullet through his thigh. Dean pounced on Walls before he could pull the trigger again.

They wrestled to the floor fighting for Walls' gun. Dean grabbed Walls's wrist to wrench away the weapon, a shot was fired, and Walls lay dead with a slug in his temple.

A nationwide alert was called for Walls, a Negro, after he had shot and critically wounded rookie Patrolman Edmund J. Michel, 32, of Springfield, Mass., Dec. 2.

Michel, off duty at the time, happened by just as Walls and a companion, identified as Ralph Elmore, were fleeing from a fur store they had burglarized. Michel was carrying an unloaded gun and tried to bluff Walls. From a distance of 10 feet, Walls shot him just below the heart.

Michel's condition was described Saturday as good.

TRUE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — A woman driver with a small baby in her arms walked into the McKeesport police station Saturday with a problem.

As she was saying to Sgt. William Kreiling that she would appreciate someone fixing her flat tire, veteran fireman John Mulligan, 49, walked into the station.

Sgt. Kreiling smiled and said to Mulligan: "It's pretty close to Christmas and it wouldn't hurt to show some Christmas spirit."

Mulligan winked at Sgt. Kreiling went outside and changed the tire.

A moment later, Mulligan suffered a fatal heart attack.

U.S. Confident Of Italy In Zone Playoffs

PERTH, Australia (AP)—"We are fit, ready and confident we can beat the Italians."

That was the optimistic statement of U.S. Davis Cup Captain Perry Jones Saturday as he launched the final week's practice for the inter-zone final beginning Friday.

The American and European zone victors clash in this picturesque, isolated Western Australian capital for the right to challenge Australia for the trophy Dec. 29-31 at Brisbane. It is worth the challenge berth $50,000 to the winner.

The young U.S. team, averaging 21 years in age, is favored to score at least a 4-1 and possibly a 5-0 victory over the flashy but unpredictable Italians, who are not at their best on a grass surface. But the Italians scoff at such predictions.

"Do not count us out. We may pull a surprise," said the Italians' bearded, non-playing captain, Giorgi Dal Fiume.

Australian pro Ken McGregor, who has been working with the European champions since they hit Australia, said he believed there is a good chance the Americans will be knocked out of the challenge round for the first time since 1936.

"These boys are playing fine tennis," McGregor said. "They have the equipment and are deadly serious."

While Jones has failed to tip his hand, it appears Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo will be the U.S. doubles team, Richardson and Barry MacKay are the probable singles players.

Colovito Steals Thunder From AL Slugging Stars

CHICAGO (AP)—The batting surge of Cleveland's Rocky Colavito took some of the thunder from the American League's established slugging stars in 1958, official statistics showed Saturday.

Although such baseball veterans as Boston's Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen, and New York's Mickey Mantle grabbed most of the major hitting honors, the Tribe's 25-year-old outfielder enjoyed his finest season in his third full year with Cleveland.

Colavito's 41 homers were just one short of Mantle's league-pacing total, and his 113 runs-batted-in was second to the leading 122 by Jensen. Colavito, with .303, was among 11 .300 hitters, three more than achieved that figure in 1957.

Williams was certified for his sixth league batting crown with .328 and teammate Pete Runnels finished second at .322. It took 477 or more times at bat to qualify for the title.

Mantle not only led in homers but also was tops in total bases with 307 and in runs scored with 127. Washington's Roy Sievers was third in homers with 39 and also third in RBI's with 108. He won both honors in 1957.

Fourth place in homers and RBI's, with 38 and 104 was Kansas City's Bob Cerv in compiling a .305 mark.

Other departmental leaders: Total hits—Nelson Fox of Chicago with 187 to repeat for the lead; doubles—Harvey Kuenn, Detroit, 39; triples—Vic Power, Cleveland, 10; sacrifice hits—Billy Martin, Detroit, 13; sacrifice flies—Frank Bolling, Detroit, and Hec Lopez, Kansas City, each with 9; stolen bases—Luis Aparicio, Chicago, 29.

Team batting laurels went to the world champion New York Yankees for the second straight year with .268. The league home run total of 1,057 was 33 over the 1957 production. The Yankees collected 164, followed by Cleveland with 161, Boston 155, Kansas City 138, Washington 121, Detroit 109, Baltimore 108 and Chicago 101.

THIS MAY BE ONE REASON

CHICAGO (AP)—One thing that may be causing a lag in the sale of television sets, a manufacturer suggested Saturday, is a scarcity of "the exciting kind of programming which, without a doubt, serves as a stimulus to television set ownership."

Ross D. Siragusa, president of Admiral Corp., told the firm's sales convention, "Television networks are offering the American people a thimbleful of imagination in programming and are throwing buckets of commercials on top of it."

The MacMurray College Highlanders broke even on a two game road trip with a 72 to 63 win over Missouri Valley Saturday at Marshall, Mo.

Missouri Valley fought back in the closing minutes to pull even with the MacMurray five and at the close of the regulation contest the score was all knotted up, 61 to 61. Red Star Tells Story Of Army Officer Swindle

MOSCOW (AP)—Red Star Saturday told the story of an army officer who reaped 200,000 rubles in a big swindle by using soldiers under his command for private work.

Worse still, said the army newspaper, the officer pulled the wool over the eyes of Communist party officials who visited the area by "pampering them with regal treatment."

Red Star, in publishing the expose, demanded intensified efforts against "loss of Communist party principles" in the army.

The accused officer was identified only by the name Parkhomenko. The newspaper said he has been removed from his command and kicked out of the party. He was charged with using soldiers to do such things as build bridges, repair roads and cut timber for various organizations and stuffing the profits into his own pocket.

Snow And Cold Spreads Across Southern States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and cold, the makings of harsh Northern winters, spread across the South Saturday.

The snow pattern reached from Texas and Oklahoma eastward to Georgia. It was expected to extend northeastward toward Virginia and the middle section of the Atlantic coast during the night.

The snowfall measured 10 inches in Pine Bluff, Ark., 5 in Helena, Ark., 4 in Clarksdale, Miss., 3 in Memphis Tenn., and Tupelo, Miss.

Kids got out sleds in Birmingham, Ala. There was 2 inches of snow there and in Muscle Shoals, Ala.

Oklahoma's snow ranged up to 7 inches in Tulsa and 7½ in Okmulgee. The Texas Panhandle caught up to 4 inches, Perryton, in the Panhandle, had zero cold at 7 a.m.

A dozen deaths in Dixie were attributed to the weather. Included were nine in North Carolina, and one each in Texas, Arkansas and South Carolina.

Four deaths in home fires were reported in Alabama. Snow covered the northern one-third of the state. A cold wave was predicted for Saturday night, along with 4 to 8 inches of snow in the northern sections.

Two to 6 inches of snow and freezing weather were predicted for northern Georgia.

There was a possibility of snow mixed with rain along the Florida-Georgia border.

The Carolinas and Virginia also faced the prospect of more snow.

A mass of cold air covered most of the nation. Temperatures Saturday included -24 in Bemidji, Minn., -16 in Dubuque, Iowa, -12 in Rockford, Ill., -9 in Madison, Wis., -7 at Chicago's O'Hare Field, -6 in Grand Rapids, Mich., Omaha, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and South Bend, Ind.

Readings remained well above zero in the South but early in the day thermometers registered 10 in Richmond, Va., 20 in Nashville, Tenn., 32 in Jacksonville, Fla., and 52 in Miami Beach.

More arctic air drained into the Northern Plains region and temperatures hovered around zero at midday in the upper sections of the Midwest.

Light snow fell on scattered areas in the Rockies and Western Plains. Snow or freezing drizzle slicked roads in the interior of Washington State.

Snow also fell in eastern Maine.

More snow hit storm-plagued Oswego N. Y. Three inches of new snow fell early in the day, and after a brief period of later sunshine the snow started in again. Blinding clouds of snow whipped in off Lake Ontario and the winds threatened serious drifting. From 5 to 10 inches of new snow was predicted.

The morning storm raised the month's total snowfall to 80 inches, including 69 inches in the last week.

WOUNDED BY BULLET 2 YEARS AGO, DIES SATURDAY

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Carolyn Chetta, 21-year-old woman wounded by a bullet two years and three months ago, died Saturday in a hospital.

Miss Chetta was crippled Sept. 9, 1956, in an accidental shooting. The bullet entered her right eye and damaged the brain. She never regained consciousness.

The shooting also shattered Miss Chetta's hopes of being married and resulted in her fiance, Joseph Bergeron, being fired from the police force.

Bergeron and Miss Chetta were inspecting an apartment they planned to rent after marriage. Bergeron was unloading his .38 caliber revolver. Police said it discharged accidentally and the bullet struck Miss Chetta.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

DORADO, Puerto Rico — (NEA) — When Robert Trent Jones two years ago first saw the 1,200 acres of Puerto Rico's north coast purchased by Laurence Rockefeller, he had to cut him way through the jungle with a machete. It required a lot of cash and know-how to build the magnificent 7,115-yard Dorado Beach Golf Club course.

Rockefeller, we suspect, had the former, Jones the savy.

Jones, foremost golf architect, is a man who likes to make trouble. His business is penalizing golfers for bad shots.

Jones has spent 36 of his 52 years studying his rather unusual occupation, has built more than 250 courses — from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, through the United States and in Venezuela and Brazil. His work keeps him flying — 20,000 miles a year. He flew here after inspecting a Mexican project and left to look at another in the Bahamas.

* * *

TWENTY UNITED STATES and Canadian Open Championships have been played on courses built by Jones. In more recent years he has doctored sites of the U.S. Open. At Tulsa's Southern Hills last mid-June, for example, he added 20 traps around greens and picked protective pin positions. He says that Winged Foot, where the 1959 Open will be contested, doesn't need much fixing to test the best.

Jones, an old Rochester, N. Y., boy who studied engineering, agriculture and horticulture at Cornell, was asked what his first thought was in laying out a course. Did he first consider the week-end player or the low handicap man?

"The basic principle is tough pars and easy bogies," he says. "Trouble left and right and in front of the greens. That takes care of everybody."

Jones was asked to pick the finest holes he had seen for the ideal composite course. He beamed. Trouble for golfers always makes him smile.

"For par 5's," he began, "the 18th at Pebble Beach, the 13th at the Augusta National, the 6th at Coton Bay in the Bahamas and the 4th right here."

As par 4's he chose the 16th over the quarry at Merion, the 13th at Pine Valley, the 7th at Peachtree in Atlanta, the 11th at Tulsa's Southern Hills, Winged Foot's 18th, the 17th at the Olympic Club of San Francisco, Oakland Hills' 16th, the 7th at Colorado Springs' Broadmoor, the 16th at Old Warson in St. Louis and the 18th at Coral Ridge in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

* * *

HIS PAR 3'S ARE the 16th at Cypress Point on California's Monterey Peninsula, the 16th at the Augusta National, Baltusrol's 4th and Pine Valley's 5th. He has had a hand in building most of these — just as he had here in Puerto Rico.

Jones solved a drainage problem at Dorado Beach by creating three lakes. A natural lagoon provides the fourth body of water—around which the shotmakers play. The 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th holes are remindful of Pebble Beach. The 5th tee is on the shore of the Atlantic Ocean and it is a 555-yard par 5 dogleg around the lagoon, where a crack touring professional or two took a 9 during the first Dorado Beach Golf Club Invitational Tournament.

The Dorado Beach fairways are lined by undisturbed planting. They are well wooded and the 555-yard par 5 15th, lined by stately royal palm trees, is particularly striking.

The course is a horticultural delight. You get the garden effect that attracts tourists who do not play golf to the Augusta National.

And the spanking new Dorado Beach Golf Club layout is just as much a challenge to the masters.

Illinois Overpowers College Of Pacific

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois' balanced scoring—five players hit in double figures—Saturday overpowered College of Pacific's basketball team 85-67.

NO STOP-OVERS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced Saturday night that for the first time in their history, they will come directly to St. Louis from their spring training base in St. Petersburg.

Cancellation of the Red Birds' traditional homeward barnstorming trip apparently stemmed from their unhappy experience last season, when they ran into bad weather and opened the regular season losing 14 of their first 17 games.

STURDY CHILDREN

LONDON (AP)—Children in the Leyton district of London due to leave school this year are four inches taller and 24 pounds heavier than their predecessors in 1908, according to a report by the school's medical officer.

Anderson Wins Victorian Meet, Whips Cooper

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mal Anderson's tennis racket is hot again, and that is depressing news to the U.S. Davis Cup team.

The lean Queenslander, who has been in a prolonged slump since his impressive victory in the American nationals at Forest Hills in 1957, rounded back to top form Saturday with a 8-minute straight-set victory over his Australian teammate, Ashley Cooper, for the Victorian championship.

The score was 7-5, 6-4, 6-3. It tells little of the superiority which the quick, nimble-footed Anderson held over his more cumbersome countryman.

Perry Jones, 70-year-old U.S. Davis Cup captain, and Jack Kramer, who is advising him, both delayed their trio to Perth to watch the all-Australian final. They were impressed, but Jones refused to concede that the bristling match dimmed America's hopes of recapturing the huge silver bowl.

"Any time Anderson hits form it is bad news for us," said Kramer, who reportedly will sign both of Saturday's finalists to pro contracts after the Davis Cup challenge round.

"I thought Anderson looked the best I have seen him since Forest Hills in '57. When he is right he probably is the best amateur tennis player in the world."

Jones said both Cooper and Anderson played good tennis, but he saw nothing to make him think the Aussies are unbeatable.

"The match proved to me that Cooper can be beaten if pressure is applied," the American captain said. "I still believe we can best them if our boys get in the right attitude."

Anderson and Cooper both were assured of singles assignments in the challenge round before the match, but Anderson was regarded as second to his hard-hitting teammate. Cooper beat him in the finals for both the U.S. and Australian championships and added Wimbledon to this season's list of laurels.

Now the situation may be reversed. Anderson may be the strongest bet for keeping the cup at home.

Highlanders Have Busy Week Ahead

The MacMurray Highlanders, improved in recent games, have three encounters on the schedule next week.

The Hardin avenue fieldhouse will be the scene of some excitement on Monday evening, Dec. 15, when Millikin University meets the Highlanders in a return engagement. The first meeting resulted in a Millikin victory at Decatur, 91-75, in one of the poorest showings thus far by MacMurray.

However, the Highlanders have exhibited much improvement since then, according to Coach Bill Wall, and promise to have some surprises in store before the season is out. One reason for their recent improvement, Coach Wall believes, is the opportunity to study films of the Millikin game in order to see where things went wrong.

A possible breather may take place on the following Thursday when Lincoln Bible College visits Jacksonville for the first time since last year, for a contest at the fieldhouse. The following evening, the Highlanders will journey to Alton for a contest with Southern Illinois University's extension team.

Hohenberger Leading Scorer

Coach Wall plans on starting Jerry Lace, Stillman Valley, Ill.; Tom Allen, Columbus, Ohio; Don McCarty, Pleasant Hill, Ill.; Lynn Blair, Beardstown, Ill.; and Marv Hohenberger, Ayersville, Ohio, in Friday evening's game. The all-sophomore squad has averaged 89.0 points per game to their opponent's 88.6.

Hohenberger, a new student this year, is pacing the Highlanders with a 15-point average on 76 points scored in five games. Second in scoring is another Ohio boy, Chuck Osborne, who has gathered in 53 points in five games. Tom Allen, also a Columbus kid, has hit for 49 counters, one less than his teammate Don McCarty. Lace has 44 and Ron Price, Dorchester, Ill., 41.

The Highlander field goal percentage has hovered in the same vicinity that it did last year with the Scotsmen hitting 40.3% on 161 bulls eyes in 399 attempts.

In the free throw department they have been superb, with a 71% average on 123 of 174 tries.

However, it is in the defense department that Bill Wall is concentrating in practice sessions.

"Defense and rebounding are still our two big nemeses," Coach Wall commented. "With three games in the next six days, we will be able to get a pretty good idea of what we will have for the season. In some games, I have been impressed with the teams, yet in others they have not looked good at all. A concentrated stretch like this should bring out either the best or the worst in us."

Wall added that he has been impressed with Osborne, Price, Leistner, Campbell in recent junior varsity games and in practice.

SINGING DRIVERS

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Jimmy Etheridge of the traffic bureau here says auto drivers should sing while they drive. He displays a slogan advocating: at 45 mph sing "Highways are happy ways"; at 55 mph "I'm but a stranger here, Heaven is my home"; at 65 mph "Nearer my God to Thee"; at 75 mph "When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there"; at 85 mph "Lord I'm coming home."

Nine Teams Spilled From Unbeaten Ranks

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Decatur, Danville, Evanston, West Frankfort, and Harrisburg were spilled from the unbeaten ranks of Illinois high school basketball leaders Friday.

Alton, Belleville, Ottawa and Paris also suffered their first setbacks.

The rash of first beatings for so many teams signaled the end of preliminaries and the collision of many highly regarded squads with outfits of their own caliber, some in league play.

Decatur took its first lumps from a first-rate Big 12 rival, Springfield, whose Senators boast several members of the 1957-58 Sweet Sixteen entry.

Decatur closely contested the 56-52 loss while trying to stretch its string to five straight. The once - beaten Senators notched their third success.

Another Big 12 topliner featured a similar situation. Mattoon scored 59 to 41 to humble Danville, a four-time winner.

Proviso, a club that both Elgin and West Aurora reversed, knocked off Evanston 59-38. Evanston had three victories in a row.

Once - beaten Pinckneyville dressed down West Frankfort 59-52. West Frankfort also had listed three victories.

In a game that matched even 4-0 slates, Harrisburg almost kept Herrin at bay in a 65-61 struggle.

Still showing form that took the Rockets to second place in the state tourney last year, Rock Falls won 47-42 from Ottawa. Both teams were risking 4-0 records.

Once-stopped, East St. Louis began to live up to advance notice as a southwestern threat by breaking Alton's two-game winning streak 67-62. Wood River's 75-68 victory was its third and put Belleville's chart at 1-1.

Paris's first loss in six outings was a 47-30 stinger dished out by the Canton Bulldogs who seem to have hit their expected stride. Unstopped Joliet wilted under the steam of Elgin, 56-48 winner.

Standing out because of its seventh win in a row, Princeton easily defeated Marquette of Ottawa, 62-43.

West Aurora, Cathedral of Springfield, Dixon, Flora and Hinsdale advanced to fifth consecutive victories. West beat East Aurora 68-50.

Cathedral smashed Routt of Jacksonville 73-30. Dixon stopped Sterling 58-35, Flora whipped Olney 65-46 and Hinsdale smacked Glenbard 58-37.

Four-time winners were led by Centralia. The Orphans walloped Marion for its second loss of the year, 88-53.

Others successful for the fourth time included Pontiac, 67-55 over Clinton; Streator, 59-53 over Kewanee; and East Peoria, 64-50 against Peoria Spalding.

Newton, which beat favored Cumberland last week in Eastern Illinois League play, took the other favorite, Casey, down the same road, winning 53-43.

In a sixth try, Champaign broke into the win column, surpassing Lincoln 43-31.

Quincy, which lost its first three games of the season, won its second consecutive, beating Macomb 59-53.

Crimson Wrestlers Rout Quincy, 37-13

Duncan was graduated from Winchester High School in 1953 and was a farmer in civilian life. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell T. Duncan, live in Manchester.

SECOND DEATH FROM ACCIDENT FRIDAY NIGHT

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Nine-year-old Richard Stephen Hughes died Saturday, the second fatality resulting from an accident in which a car struck a group of five boys Friday night.

The other boy killed was Harold Wayne Schuck, 14. Both lived in Golden Acres, a Peoria suburb.

Three other boys in the group, who were walking home along the shoulder of a road after attending basketball practice, received slight injuries.

The driver of the car, Elmer Berchtold, 40, of Peoria, told police another car was passing his at the time of the accident, and he could neither stop in time nor swerve to avoid them. Berchtold was held pending an inquest.

PROTEST SENDING MONKEY IN SPACE

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said Saturday it had had numerous calls protesting the Army's shooting a monkey aloft in a space missile.

Dr. Erich H. Hansen, president of the Massachusetts SPCA said: "The society recognizes the importance of space investigation but considers the use of living animals for research to be at best a necessary evil."

The Army shot Gordo, a monkey, some 300 miles into space Saturday in the nose cone of a Jupiter missile. Gordo has been given up for lost and presumed dead.

Oklahoma State Wins Bluegrass Bowl Tilt, 15-6

By GEORGE W. HACKETT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Cowboys of Oklahoma State, spurred on by halfback Duane Wood, rode to a 15-6 victory over Florida State University Saturday in the first annual Bluegrass Bowl football game.

Wood bulled over for one touchdown in the second quarter, another in the third and killed a major scoring threat by Florida State in the last period when he intercepted a pass in the end zone and carried the ball out 18 yards.

Florida State, a stranger to the 12-degree temperature that limited the crowd to 5,000, picked up its lone tally early in the fourth quarter when Joe Majors hit Carl Meyer in the end zone with a 17-yard pass.

The Seminoles also tried two field goal attempts early in the first period but both of John Sheppard's boots went wide of the mark.

Florida State made an impressive showing in the first quarter but thereafter was no match for the Cowboys, who outweighed them nearly 12 pounds a man.

Oklahoma State, thawing out as the second quarter opened, moved in three plays from its own 47 to the 17, where Wood carried the ball over on a pitchout.

Jim Wood's kick gave the Cowboys a 7-0 edge with only 29 seconds gone in the quarter.

Late in the third quarter, Dick Soergel connected with Wood on a long pass that carried to the one-foot line. Wood then scored on another pitchout.

After the touchdown, Soergel again flipped to Wood in the end zone for two points, making it 15-0.

Bayer Nabs Lead In Sanford Open; Wes Ellis, 2nd

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)— Shooting a two-under-par 69 for his third straight sub-par round, large George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill., took the undisputed lead at the three-quarter mark of the Sanford Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a total of 204.

Two strokes back in second place was Wes Ellis Jr., of Aldecress, N. J., who started the day three strokes behind and came in with a 68 to add to his previous rounds of 68 and 70.

Jay Hebert of Sanford with a five-under-par 66; Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex.; Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich.; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and National Open Champion Tommy Bolt of Paradise, Fla., were deadlocked for third place at 107.

Nineteen players were 210 or better for three rounds, assuring a real battle down the stretch Sunday.

Young Bob Keller, Elgin Air Force Base pro who tied with Bayer at 135 starting Saturday's play, blew to a 75 and dropped back to the 210 bracket.

Bayer sprayed his shots on occasion and had to do a little scrambling on the first nine, but his putter usually came to his rescue. He had his second bogey in three rounds on the fourth hole where his long tee shot rolled into a water pipe and he got a bad lie when he dropped the ball out.

Ellis, on a hot streak, had an erratic 37-31 for his 68, the round including three deuces.

Hebert's 66 was tied by Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N. Y., who wound up in the 210 bracket. In all 27 players are better than par 213 and six equal that figure.

Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., shot a 71 for a 210 total and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., shot a 69 for a 213 total.

CAC Suspends Virgil Akins

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California Athletic Commission Saturday announced it had suspended former Welterweight Boxing Champ Virgil Akins indefinitely as the result of injuries suffered in his unsuccessful title defense last week.

The commission said the suspension—to last a minimum of 30 days — became effective Dec. 5, when Akins was badly cut under the eye while losing his title to Don Jordan in Los Angeles.

The 30-year-old St. Louis boxer must pass a physical examination before being allowed to fight in California again, the commission said.

Marquette Men Approach Graham

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Otto Graham, former quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, said Saturday Marquette University officials want to talk with him regarding their vacant head football coaching job.

Reached in Cleveland, Graham said he was not at home when a university representative phoned him but that he would return the call.

Graham now is in the insurance business, said his idea of coaching would be to win if he could "but that's not everything." "Of course, there are some schools who want you to win, or else," he added.

Johnny Druze resigned as Marquette's head coach the day before Thanksgiving after a disappointing three-year term during which his teams posted a record of 2-25-1.

Iowa Slips Past Texas Tech, 75-73

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's Big Ten Hawks stretched their home game winning streak against non-league opponents to 81 games Saturday as they took a narrow 75-73 victory over Texas Tech, co-favorites in the Southwest Conference.

Iowa, just returned from a winless two-game road trip to the Southwest, exchanged the lead or tied with the Red Raiders 17 times.

It was Tech's first loss of the season, coming before a regional television audience.

Tech jumped into an early 5-0 lead and kept a slim 37-36 halftime lead.

But Iowa's Dave Gunther dumped in 19 points in the second half to pace the Hawks to victory. He scored only four points in the first half.

Leon Hill of the Red Raiders tied the game 66-66 late in the final half with a 10-point rally. But Tech was unable to keep the lead after Hill fouled out with 3:45 remaining.

Gunther with 23 points and Nolden Gentry with 20 paced Iowa's scoring. Gene Arrington, who hit for 20 points, and Charles Lynch, with 16 topped Tech point makers.

Texas Tech scored 42.6 per cent on 68 shots to beat Iowa's 32.9 per cent but the Hawkeyes controlled the backboards on 53 rebounds to Tech's 28. Gentry with 17 and Gunther with 15 were the leading Iowa ball hawks.

19 Million Fans Turned Out For College Football

NEW YORK (AP)—College football teams played before more than 19 million fans with the Big Ten, Southeastern, Southwest, Pacific Coast and Big Eight conferences contributing more than half the total.

The total attendance of 19,280,709 for 2,586 games played by 618 teams represented a 5.41 per cent increase over the 1957 total of 18,290,724. The total was the second highest in collegiate history and the over-all game average of 31,199 was the highest ever.

Figures were made available to The Associated Press by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Although it's average dropped just under 3 per cent, from 55,227 to 53,673 a game, the Big Ten again led the list with 2,737,348 followed by the Southeastern, which topped the 2-million mark for the first time, playing before 2,000,404 fans.

Ohio State's Buckeyes, although beaten once and tied twice, led the nation in spectator appeal. Ohio State drew 499,352 for six home games for an average of 83,225, up about 2,500 over a year ago when the Bucks won the Big Ten title.

Steelers Claim 38-21 Victory From Cardinals

By GIB STALEY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The passing wizardry of quarterback Bobby Layne and the passing thievery of teammate Dean Derby gave the Pittsburgh Steelers a 38-21 victory over the Chicago Cardinals in a National Football League game on the frozen turf of Pitt Stadium Saturday.

Layne pitched two touchdown passes to Jimmy Orr and Derby intercepted three Chicago passes as the two teams wound up their seasons before a chilled crowd of 16,660 and a national television (CBS) audience.

Two of Derby's interceptions touched off Steeler touchdown drives and the other a 13-yard field goal by Tom Miner. Halfback Tom Tracy, who gained only 35 yards rushing Saturday, nevertheless set a Steelers season record of 714 yards. His biggest play was a spectacular 72-yard touchdown pass that found Orr in the clear with an easy track to the goal line.

For the day, the Steelers piled up 683 yards gained, second only to the Los Angeles Rams record of 735 yards in NFL history.

Layne hit on 23 of 49 pass attempts, gaining a total of 409 yards and once, fading to pass, he found a clear route and ran 17 yards for a touchdown.

Ollie Matson, the great Chicago halfback, scored two of the Cardinals TDs—one on a 92-yard kickoff runback. His second score, a one-yard plunge, gave him 10 for this season, surpassing his previous mark of nine.

The victory gave the Steelers a 7-4-1 record. The loss was the ninth for the Cardinals, having one of the worst seasons in their record. They won two and tied one game.

PACKERS SUSPEND END LEN FORD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Head coach Ray "Scooter" McLean of the Green Bay Packers Saturday suspended defensive end Len Ford on the eve of the club's final game of the season which Ford had said would be his last before retirement.

The Packers, closing out their unhappiest National Football League campaign (1-9-1) in 40 years, meet the Los Angeles Rams in the Coliseum Sunday afternoon.

As the Green Bay club reported for practice Saturday afternoon, McLean told newsmen Ford had been suspended for breaking training rules. He declined to elaborate.

Ford had announced only Friday that Sunday's game would be his last.

Kentucky Blasts Billikens, 76-57

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)— Johnny Cox, a holdover from Kentucky's NCAA champions, fired in 27 points to lead the nation's No. 2 basketball team to a 76-57 romp over ninth-ranked St. Louis Saturday.

Kentucky had to call on all of its resources before it was able to shake the taller Billikens and pull away in the last eight minutes.

St. Louis led only once and trailed by only 34-30 at halftime. But it was unable to stand off Kentucky's stretch drive as a partisan crowd of 11,400 roared approval.

The game opened college basketball's televised game of the week.

The ace for St. Louis was 6 feet 8 Bob Ferry who poured through 23 points and gave the Kentuckians plenty of anxiety.

Kentucky, at a disadvantage in size, battled St. Louis even on the boards and helped itself with a terrific 50 per cent shooting performance in the first half.

Coming back in the last half, the Billikens never came closer than two points and saw their opportunities made when they attempted to press the Wildcats with the score at 52-48 and about eight minutes left to play.

Faculty Rejects Iowa Proposal

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten faculty representatives Saturday rejected a proposal by Iowa that the need factor be eliminated in the conference's recruiting policy.

Financial aid to athletes is based on need, which is determined by financial statements of parents. Some Big Ten schools assert they are being out-recruited by non-conference institutions because of the need rule.

A majority vote was needed to carry Iowa's proposal. The vote rejecting it was not announced. In addition to Iowa, however, at least two other schools were known to favor eliminating the need factor — Northwestern and Minnesota.

In addition, other schools were on the line—voting against the proposal mainly because the aid rule needs more time to prove or disapprove its workability. It now is in its second year of enforcement.

The faculty group, ending the annual Big Ten winter meetings, also changed an interpretation in tenders of aid, clarified the definition of a transfer student and studied a proposal to change the academic progress rule.

Leo Boivin, Boston Bruins defenseman, and goalie Lorne (Grum) Worsley of the New York Rangers are the shortest players in the National Hockey League this season. Both are 5-feet-7.

Shuman Outlines Plan To Aid Agriculture, Combat Socialism

Adoption of three proposals would help return farming to a sound and prosperous basis, Charles B. Shuman, American Farm Bureau Federation president, said Tuesday.

Mr. Shuman, head of the nation's largest general farm organization, presented his annual address to Farm Bureau members and others attending the federation's 40th annual meeting at Boston, Mass. His speech was delivered at a general session in Boston's Symphony Hall. The convention ended Thursday.

The national farm leader urged the adoption of this three-point farm program:

1. Discontinue all acreage and production controls and use the soil bank to ease the adjustments for a short time.

2. Use a percentage of the previous three-year market price as a basis for price support for those products that have been price fixed.

The free market should operate most of the time. All price fixing or payment schemes would be discontinued.

3. Freeze existing stocks of government-held farm commodities so that they cannot be sold in competition with new crops on domestic or foreign markets.

Disposal of existing stocks should be accomplished over a 10-year period by discount sales or gifts to those nations which are in distress or which could not normally purchase the commodities. Public Law 480 sales should be restricted and eliminated completely within a short time.

"Program Will Work"

"This program will work — it should be initiated soon," said Mr. Shuman.

Those who believe in government direction of individuals, and those who do not recognize that our successful system in this country depends upon freedom of individuals to choose, always advocate more government controls over the economy when faced with the failure of current programs, he said.

Many panaceas will be proposed to the new Congress—bushel and poundage quotas, income subsidy payments, strict marketing orders for all crops, multi-price schemes and many others, Mr. Shuman said.

"Most of the so-called new proposals being offered have the same built-in weaknesses that brought failure to past programs and would, if adopted, accelerate the trends toward socialized agriculture," he said.

"Excessive production is encouraged as certainly by income payments as by price guarantees. In fact, the income insurance feature of these various schemes assures uneconomic stimulation of production.

"Present excessive wheat and cotton production has been in part caused by the insurance feature —the price and market being guaranteed by government before planting—as well as by the level at which prices were fixed.

"Way Toward Peasantry"

"If we place all farm production under a control and pricing scheme or add farmers to the public payroll under some income payment plan, we will have moved a long way toward peasantry in American agriculture.

"The way to a healthy, prosperous agriculture is not to make farm income dependent upon Congressional appropriations."

Mr. Shuman pointed out that 175 million people must eat and wear clothing. They will pay prices that will return a good income to farmers "if we produce what they want and keep farmers free to make the changes that are indicated by changing demand."

"The question is often asked — why is there so much opposition to every attempt to take a small step toward a return to a market price system for agriculture," said Mr. Shuman.

Three Groups

"There are three groups who like things as they now are with large surplus stocks and farmers dependent upon political action by Congress.

"The first group consists of a few devoted Marxists who wish to see our free competitive capitalistic system replaced by a system of state ownership and control of property and individuals.

"The second group is the increasing number of warehousemen and handlers of farm products who are profiting from the government storage programs. Included in this group are a few farmer cooperatives.

"The third group is the relatively small but powerful group of politicians who like to be in the position of dispensing favors to farmers. They like government farm programs because they can take credit for all improvements in farm income or make extravagant promises when conditions are not so good."

The farm leader also cited the urgent need to curb excessive government spending in order to check inflation.

"Nothing has provoked more discussion with less constructive action than has the danger of inflation," Mr. Shuman said.

"When the federal government spends more than it takes in, as has been the case in recent years, it uses money that has not been earned to compete for goods and thereby drives prices to higher levels.

"Government policies that result in easy credit terms or hold the cost of money at artificially low levels have the same effect as printing additional paper money —money and credit are plentiful and prices go up.

Can Be Checked

"Inflation can be checked by reducing government expenditures, increasing taxes or a combination of the two."

During the early phases of an inflationary spiral property owners, producers of raw materials and laborers are pleased with the first results of a cheap money policy, Mr. Shuman said. However, as costs of production and costs of living begin to climb faster than commodity prices and wages, these folks suffer along with the millions of people who have a fixed dollar income.

"Finally, the only proponents of continued big government spending and inflation are confirmed speculators, government bureaucrats and those who understand that this is the easy route to follow if you wish to destroy the free enterprise system," Mr. Shuman said.

"Either result of a long period of deficit spending—extremely high taxes or destruction of the value of money through inflation — brings nearer the goal of all Marxists, the discouragement of private savings and the transfer of property ownership or control from individuals to the state."

Many labor leaders seem to be dedicated to policies that would destroy the very system which has brought the world's highest standard of living to the working people of the United States, the farm leader said.

"Power-Hungry"

"The power-hungry labor leaders have used gangster brutality, propaganda, bribery and many forms of intimidation to gain their ends," he said.

"Unless we act soon to curb the tremendous monopoly and other powers of compulsion being used by this unscrupulous socialist-labor political machine we shall sink into the morass of dead or dying economies that are so common in Western Europe.

"Each farmer—each citizen—has the responsibility to convey to his Congressman his convictions regarding the control of monopoly power, the need to reduce government spending to check inflation and express his belief in our free enterprise, competitive capitalistic system.

"Each of us must be willing to accept cuts rather than increases in government handouts. There is no other way."

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

OUTLOOK FOR CORN, LIVESTOCK PRICES

Now that farmers have voted to end corn acreage allotments, what prices can they expect for corn and livestock? The following are our opinions:

1. Market prices of corn and the other feeds will hold in the range of the past two years—$1.00 to $1.20 a bushel.

2. Prices of meat animals, which have been high in relation to prices of feed and most other farm products, will swing down to more normal ranges compared with feed prices.

3. Prices of milk, butterfat, poultry and eggs will not change very much, and profit margins will not be much affected.

Corn and other feeds. There is no good reason to expect any exceptional increase in feed production. No big increase in the acreage of feeds is in sight. Most of our good land has always been planted to feed crops, soybeans, wheat or cotton. The relatively small acreage coming out of the Soil Bank in 1959 may be offset by less favorable growing conditions in 1959 than in 1958.

Price incentives to boost per acre yields will be less than previously. The new price support rate for corn will be 20 to 25 cents lower than the high support rate of the past two crops. It will be about the same as average market prices in the past two years.

Elimination of the high support level for corn will have the effect of reducing the government demand for corn. It will also encourage increased feeding of corn to hogs, beef cattle and poultry.

Meat animals. In recent years prices of hogs and cattle have been unusually high in relation to market prices of corn and other feeds. For example, during the 10 years 1949-1958, the hog-corn price ratio averaged 14.3 compared with earlier long-time averages of about 11.6. Prices of beef cattle were equally favorable in relation to feed costs.

While prices of meat animals were far out of line with prices of corn, they were not so far out of balance with the high price support level. As price supports for corn move closer to market value, production of livestock will increase and prices will swing downward. However, the prospective price support level for corn will provide considerable support for livestock prices. Many farmers will take a "sure thing" loan at around $1.10 or $1.15 rather than put out extra effort and take the risk of feeding hogs or cattle. This will tend to keep livestock prices high in relation to feed prices. Livestock will not make profits every year, but producers will have more good years than bad ones.

Dairy. The new price support level for corn does not seem likely to have much effect upon prices of milk or butterfat. Price supports for manufacturing milk, and price-fixing market orders for fluid milk, remain unchanged.

Poultry and eggs. Poultrymen now buy most of their feed. Their industry has been very competitive, and the new program for corn makes no important change in the prospect for profit margins.

EAST SIDE JUNIORS SET 'FAMILY NIGHT'

The annual "Family Night" meeting sponsored by the East Side Junior 4-H club will be held at Farm Bureau hall Monday, Dec. 15. A potluck supper will be spread at 6:30 p.m.

Assistant Farm Adviser Bob Hayward, Jr., will show a film strip on how to keep 4-H records.

W. Chauncy Carter and H. E. Hembrough are the co-leaders of the club.

Dart Gun 'Tranquilizes' Wild Deer

URBANA — University of Illinois veterinarians are "moving" wild deer with tranquilizers fired from a modern .50-caliber dart gun. After the deer are tranquilized, they are loaded into crates and hauled to the veterinary medical research center for study in a leptospirosis project.

Dr. Deam H. Ferris of the College of Veterinary Medicine shot a Japanese Sika deer near Winnebago, Ill., with the dart gun during the hunting season. He plans to "move" two deer from the State Game farm at Mt. Carroll to the veterinary research farm for further study. Buffalo, deer and other animals have already been moved by the State Conservation department.

The dart gun resembles a .410 shotgun and is powered by carbon dioxide pellets. The dart can be loaded with a variety of narcotics tranquilizers is shot into a muscle of the animal. Jack Crockford, Atlanta, Ga., invented the gun.

The University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine in cooperation with the State Natural History Survey and the State Conservation department is conducting research on leptospirosis in wildlife to determine its relative importance. Wildlife may be responsible for spreading the disease to domestic livestock, according to Ferris.

Leptospirosis is contagious to many animals and people. It is responsible for considerable loss in swine, cattle and sheep in the United States. Losses result from reduced gains, reduced milk production, abortions and death.

There are several strains of leptospira according to Dr. Ferris, and the strain that has been most common in deer is not commonly found in humans. In the United States, the most serious form of leptospirosis in human beings is spread by rats.

Illinois hunters were urged by University of Illinois veterinarians to collect samples of blood from deer killed during the past deer hunting season. Hunters cooperated by sending 1,319 blood samples to the research laboratory at Urbana.

These blood samples are being examined at the College of Veterinary Medicine mainly for leptospirosis. However, samples will also be examined for other diseases and parasites.

The deer captured by the dart gun will be used to study the effects of diseases of cattle on deer and the ability of deer as a carrier of leptospirosis.

Veterinarians are finding the dart gun a humane way to handle restless bulls and other animals that are hard to manage. Dr. Ferris says the sting of the dart is no worse for the animal than a pollo shot is for a human being.

Illinois Leads Nation In Use Of Soil Tests

Illinois farmers are the leaders in the use of chemical analysis of soil samples as a guide for soil improvement.

During 1957 the farmers of this state had 662,000 soil samples tested for acidity or alkalinity, phosphorus and potash. The results were evaluated by farm advisers following a study of the previous cropping system and what the farmer desired to plant the following year. Then the adviser made recommendations of how much of each element should be added to each acre to bring it up to high producing capacity.

The 662,000 figure was more than the combined number of samples tested in 35 states. It also represented a nearly 50% increase over those tested in 1955, although there was only a slight increase nation-wide and a decrease in 14 states.

In Morgan county the soil testing laboratory is sponsored by the Farm Bureau and supervised by the Illinois Extension service. In the past 12 months the laboratory has tested samples representing 17,733 acres of 663 individual farms.

A total of 5,243 samples were tested for pH to indicate the need for calcium; 4,590 samples were checked for phosphorus and 4,251 for potash.

This is more than were tested in 1957 in Oregon or North Dakota and is nearly as many as were tested in the entire state of Texas!

Twenty-three lawns and gardens were also tested in Morgan county during the past 12 months and Farm Adviser George Trull gave recommendations as to the amount and kind of fertilizer to be added for best results.

The local laboratory charges 10c for each pH test, 16c for phosphorus and 25c for the much more complicated potash test.

In 16 states soil tests are free. Some states charge only 25c, but more of them are in the 50-75c range. Seventeen states charge a dollar or more and it's $2.50 in Montana and Oregon.

Mrs. Rowena Enke is in charge of the local laboratory. She received her training at the University of Illinois. Periodically she sends samples and her findings to the University where they are tested again for a cross-check.

Soil testing here may show some increase. The county ASC board has ruled that all farmers applying for assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program must have their soil tested before the application will be considered. In the past the application was tentatively accepted with the provision that the test would be made later to determine whether the field needed limestone, phosphorus or potash, and how much of each.

The farm adviser says samples may be taken whenever the ground isn't frozen. Complete information on how the samples should be taken may be secured at the Farm Bureau, along with free envelops especially designed to hold the samples.

The temperature of the blood of cold-blooded animals, such as fish and reptiles, remain practically the same as that of the surrounding environment.

Morrow Plots Produce Record Yield Of Corn

URBANA—A plot of land growing corn continuously for 83 years on the famed University of Illinois Morrow plots produced a yield of 139 bushels an acre in 1958. This soil had received a manure - lime - phosphate treatment since 1904 and extra nitrogen, potash and phosphate since 1955.

Perhaps even more startling and significant were the results on another plot that produced yields of 130 bushels an acre. This land had also grown corn for 83 years but had received no plant food treatment until 1955. For the past four years it has received lime, nitrogen, phosphate and potash. For the three years before the plant food treatment yields had average only 23 bushels an acre.

The value of plant food treatments shows up easily when we realize that corn yields averaged only 32 bushels an acre in 1958 on the continuous corn plots that had received no treatments during the last 83 years.

Rotations Important

The apparently favorable yields on the continuous corn plots receiving plant food treatments do not mean that University agronomists are recommending a continuous corn program on Illinois farms. The Morrow plots show even more favorable yields when a crop rotation plan is followed.

On the section of the plots in a corn-oats-legume rotation, yields for corn receiving only a regular manure - lime - phosphate treatment since 1904 average 140 bushels an acre. When nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer treatment was added to one plot, yield hit 144 bushels an acre, a record high. On the rotation plot with no soil treatment, corn averaged only 63 bushels an acre.

Different Response

These results further confirm what the agronomists have believed for years: highly fertile soils on which a good rotation has been used along with soil treatments over the years will respond less to larger ad tions of fertilizer than will the poorer soils.

The record-high yields obtained on the Morrow plots in 1958 can be explained by favorable growing conditions, University agronomist L. B. Miller believes. He points out that the last four years have all been good corn years at Urbana. But even when growing conditions have been favorable, rotations and plant food treatments have produced some very important yield differences.

ACP Practices Deadline Dec. 31

Morgan county farmers who have not completed authorized practices under the 1958 Agricultural Conservation Program must do so before Dec. 31 to qualify for assistance, states Wallace T. Hembrough, local ASA office manager.

Evidence of completion must be filed with the county office by Jan. 9.

Hembrough also advised owners of wheat, oats or soybeans stored on the farm or in public warehouses that they have until Jan. 31, 1959, to arrange for government loans on the stored grains.

Quite a few loans on stored corn are now being processed at the county offices. Other cribs and bins have been measured and inspected by sealing crews, but the loans will not be completed, for income tax purposes, until after the first of the new year.

The sign-up for ACP practices in 1959 will begin on Jan. 2. In prior years it had been started on Dec. 15.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Something new is cooking at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station—Beef Cattle Days and Tours for southern Illinois counties. The dates are Dec. 16 to 19 inclusive.

The program starts at 9:30 each morning with discussion of Station beef cattle research and a review of cattle research and ideas from elsewhere. Ample time will be allowed for questions and answers. Lunch will be served at the Station. Bring your boots and dress warmly because we plan to tour the cattle barns and feed lots in the afternoon until 3 o'clock.

Research Results

During the morning program we will discuss complete mixed rations and pelleted rations, the value of hormone implants on pasture and in the feedlot, the value of creep rations for calves on pasture, and whether simple protein supplements are sufficient for fattening cattle. You will learn how to feed the cow herd at the Station. Doctor Mansfield will point up the incidence and seriousness of internal parasites in Illinois cattle.

Afternoon Tour

During the afternoon show, you'll be able to see different kinds of silage and hear a discussion of all-grain silage. Bulls from fast-gaining, early-fattening and control herds will be lotted for inspection and comparison. You'll see the young cattle and their wintering rations as well as types of shelter and equipment and such current research as hay wafer feeding and levels of roughage and concentrate feeding. We'll have a full day for you.

An Aid To Education

Formation of a Citizens' Committee in Morgan County School District 117 is a step in right direction toward dealing with present and future problems affecting education in the Jacksonville community.

The men and women who have consented to serve on the committee are performing valuable public service. They are making available their thought and judgment to work with the Board of Education in carrying on activities of the district. The educational welfare of several thousand boys and girls will be their concern.

District 117 has numerous Parent-Teacher organizations to promote better understanding between the classroom and home. The new Citizens' Committee, with membership representing all sections of the big district, should further the relationship between citizens and the Board of Education. In these days of expanding population and rising costs, combined efforts of citizens and official governmental units are needed to chart educational policies and meet new challenges.

Citizens of Jacksonville and School District 117 have many years pointed with pride at their modern, well staffed school system. The educational facilities now provided in the district are by no means accidental—they were planned by civic-minded men and women serving on the Board of Education, whose acts are underwritten by public approval. The Citizens' Committee can be of vast assistance in aiding and counseling the Board of Education.

Be Sure Your Tree Is Safe

The Christmas tree, in all its tinseled glory, is a symbol of Christmas cheer and a rallying point for the family at that long-awaited hour when the Yuletide presents are harvested from beneath its boughs and opened with exclamations of pleasure and surprise.

The Christmas tree is also, all too often, a symbol of tragic disaster and even death.

This happens when the tree catches fire.

A great deal of progress toward safety has been made since Christmas trees were lighted with candles. Then the lights usually were left on only for a few minutes while the entire family stood guard.

But even today the Christmas tree is a natural fire hazard. The National Fire Protection Association warns that in recent years the U.S. has averaged more than 1,000 Christmas tree fires each Yule season. That is in addition to other holiday-connected blazes.

Make sure you don't contribute to that number this year.

Cause Of Justice

More than 30 years have passed since the state of Massachusetts executed Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, oblivious to an international clamor to set them free.

They were accused of murdering a paymaster and a guard at South Braintree, Mass., and for seven years they and their friends fought through the courts to overcome legal procedure which provided for no review of facts. High feelings were aroused by accusations that the men held radical political views.

A member of the Massachusetts legislature now calls for passage of a resolution to grant Sacco and Vanzetti posthumous pardons. Many persons will feel that it is not too late to correct the record of a case which by now is studied as a classic in miscarriage of justice.

In the shadow of the electric chair, Vanzetti, the fish peddler and student of Emerson's philosophy, forgave his executioners. Reciprocation comes a little late but even now may be too early to escape the blacklash of strong feelings aroused in the 20's.

The fate of this resolution will be watched far beyond Boston's State House.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movies-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The new TV show they're talking about in Hollywood is a slick reworking of the old private eye gimmick, "Peter Gunn."

I've heard predictions from insiders that Gunn will shoot down his opposition (except on the West Coast), high-riding Danny Thomas. I've heard raves about the originality of the show, also complaints about the amount of brutality. So it was time for a chat with the show's papa, a bright young film maker named Blake Edwards.

"Yes, I've heard it said that we have too much brutality in the show," said Edwards. "We're re-evaluating our scripts with that in mind.

"But I think we have a lot less brutality than most westerns. Maybe it's the way we show it. You seldom see actual blows being landed. A fist will come right at the camera, then we'll cut and you'll hear the sound. Perhaps it seems worse that way.

"We'll never be able to do away with violence. After all, a private eye lives in a world of crime. He comes in contact with criminals every day."

"Peter Gunn" has topnotch scripts, written or supervised by Edwards, who has directed about half the shows. The Monday night NBC offering has an able cast, headed by Craig Stevens, Lola Albright and Hope Emerson. But Edwards credits 50 per cent of the show's effectiveness to the musical score by Hank Mantuci.

"Those who understand modern jazz will appreciate the music for itself," Edwards said. "The others will get the message in the mood it creates. We've spent a lot of time and money on the music, even writing sequences to fit Hank's score."

Matter of FACT

Not until 1865 did coal mining become an important industry in the United States, but today the U.S. is the world's largest coal producer. The amount of coal used per capita rose from less than a ton in 1870 to about four tons in 1940. Some of the biggest cities — Pittsburgh, Birmingham, and Cleveland in particular — have developed because of enormous coal deposits in nearby regions.

Editor:

From Thanksgiving to Christmas each year the average American is a happy person. We're happy with the Christmas spirit, buying gifts, sending cards and doing for others.

In our hearts one can find love, kindness and forgiveness toward our fellow man.

But, with the passing of December 25th we set aside our new found Joy and happiness for another year. Our thoughts then turn to our own personal needs.

Why should the gladness of this season end on Christmas day? Why can't we hold onto the Christmas spirit and practice it every day of our lives?

By doing so, we all would find that our lives are more complete and we also would really bring the true Christmas era to every home.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There must be a Kremlin clock that rings every year just before the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic military alliance meet in Paris. It's beginning to ring regularly.

You can see the pattern. Bong, the clock goes. Premier Nikita Khrushchev jumps up and tells the boys in charge of the propaganda section: "Start pumping." It happened last year. Now it's happened again.

Last year Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was all set to fly to Paris for the NATO meeting. Then, two days before Dulles' takeoff, the Russians threw out what they must have thought a blockbuster.

In a 3,000-word letter to President Eisenhower the then Premier Nicolai Bulganin — with Khrushchev at his side—proposed a summit meeting and a ban on atomic bomb tests.

There was nothing new in it—in the way of fresh ideas—and State Department officials branded it a propaganda trick intended to disturb and maybe split the Allies before they met in Paris.

Thursday the Kremlin clock rang again, this time just a day before Dulles' scheduled takeoff for the NATO meeting in Paris Sunday.

This time the Russians tried a one-two-three punch, with Khrushchev, Moscow radio and Tass, the official Soviet news agency, all grabbing the pump handle.

The biggest and most critical problem facing the foreign ministers in Paris is the demand made by Khrushchev that the United States, Britain and France all clear their troops out of West Berlin and leave it a free city.

The Western powers — particularly the United States and Britain—have indicated they'll do no such thing. The United States, Britain and France, under agreements made with the Russians after World War II, have troops in West Berlin.

But Berlin is 110 miles within Eastern Germany. For the Western powers to pull out would leave all Berlin, including the West Germans who have built up their sector, at the mercy of the East German Communists. The Soviet Union proposed to turn over to the East Germans control of the corridors through which the Western powers now have access to Berlin.

The West German government wants the Allies not to yield to the Soviet pressure. But the Russians since Nov. 10 have made ugly suggestions indicating they are in for a rough time if they don't pull out.

So Thursday, one day before Dulles was to fly to Paris, Tass opened up in a move clearly intended to disturb the Western foreign ministers when they meet Sunday in Paris and again, if possible, to split them.

Tass accused the West of stalling on Khrushchev's proposal about neutralizing West Berlin. It repeated that use of force in defense of the Western sectors of Berlin would be met with force by the Soviet-led Warsaw Alliance.

Radio Moscow chimed in with the statement that the "situation in West Berlin will have to be changed."

And Khrushchev — now indisputably the Soviet Union's No. 1 man since Bulganin has been pushed so far out of sight no one hears of him much any more—let go on his own.

He was quoted in an interview by a German newspaper in Munich as giving this warning:

If the West attempted to break through East German territory to Berlin by force, to supply their Berlin garrisons, there would be war and the use of the Soviet Union's most powerful weapons.

The trouble with the Kremlin clock is that its timing is getting obvious.

So They Say

It was as if Little Rock had suffered a major disaster, and that not only the buildings and laboratories and libraries had been destroyed, but the entire teaching staff wiped out.
—W. C. Beasheers, superintendent of the Private School Corp., on the school situation in Little Rock, Ark.

I'm not going to buy, so to speak, a millionaire a pole.
—GOP conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater (Ariz.), on New York governor-elect Nelson Rockefeller as 1960 presidential candidate.

Many of our foreign policy pronouncements on the highest level have been filled in recent years with scriptural quotations and moral imperatives . . . We must . . . distinguish sharply between morality and moralizing—between the preaching or ethical principles and their actual practice.
—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.)

FROM CURSE TO WORSE

NEW YORK (AP) — An actor never knows what sort of assignment will turn up. Bartell LaRue a while back made a recording for a disc company of a series of 19th Century temperance lectures, collectively entitled "The Curse of Drink."

Now LaRue has been cast in the new Broadway play, "Night Circuit." His role? Portraying a drunkard.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — An embarrassed party - going friend explains that she has collided with Mrs. Manlio Brosio, wife of the Italian ambassador, three times within the last month. Although she insists that each bump has been an accident, her husband thinks otherwise.

"You'd think I'm right, too, if you have ever noticed that expensive mink coat Mrs. Brosio always wears," he explains. "It costs more than I make in an entire year. My wife figures that the closest she'll ever come to wrapping herself in a mink like that is to have those so-called accidents."

BIGGEST SHOW enthusiast in town is new Indian Ambassador Mohamed Ali Currium Chagla. No sooner had he finished presenting his credentials at the State Department, then he rushed downtown to buy tickets for a new stage play. Since then, he has attended three theater productions and a half-dozen movies.

Friends say that if Chagla had his way, he would change the whole complexion of embassy receptions. Instead of inviting guests for cocktails, they explain, he would probably treat them to a double feature.

GUESTS AT A Viet Nam embassy reception were startled to hear that the embassy was going to pass out golden coins to everybody there. Any thoughts of making a quick trip to the bank vanished, however, when a waiter started circulating through the crowd with a large tray.

Turned out that "golden coin" is the name of a luscious hors d'oeuvre. It's made by covering circles of ham with chopped beef topped with pineapple rings. International party-goers say it's considered the outstanding Vietnamese party snack.

FRENCH SHOWMAN Maurice Chevalier immediately lost his usual charming smile the other night when he tasted his first drink at a party given by some officials of CARE. The noted entertainer had come to town to put on a new show and do some promotional work for the international welfare organization.

"What brand of Scotch is this?" he asked. "It's undoubtedly the strangest tasting drink I've ever had."

When the host checked his liquor supply to find out, he discovered that he had picked up the wrong bottle and had mixed Chevalier's drink with quinine water instead of soda.

WHEN NEWLY - ELECTED Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) arrives in Washington next January, he will come equipped with the best chauffering service in town. His wife, Janey, is a licensed helicopter pilot and owns her own whirlybird.

Janey plans to fly her husband on many of his out-of-town trips just like she did during the recent campaign. The senator's airborne lifts won't be restricted by bad weather, either. First thing Janey plans to do when she arrives is to get her instrument rating.

PUBLIC RELATIONS boys at the Soviet Embassy are taking no chances that Washington newsmen will overlook the important points in Khrushchev's speeches. They've started mailing reporters translations of their boss's public harangues which have almost every sentence labeled according to its dramatic merits. The various grades of importance are marked with the words "Applause," "Prolonged Applause," "Loud Applause," "Loud Prolonged Applause," and "Loud Prolonged Applause—All Rise."

A BRITISH EMBASSY official says comedians in England are making fun of America's smoking habits. He says one of their parodies goes like this:

"A pack of Coughies, please."
"Yes sir, regular or king size?"
"King size."
"Filter or nonfilter?"
"Nonfilter."
"Menthol or nonmenthol?"
"Nonmenthol."
"Crushproof box or soft pack?"
"Soft pack."
"Turkish blend or ——."
"Forget it! I've just licked the habit!"

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

The Cass county Farm Bureau will hold its annual meeting tomorrow.

More than 80 farmers attended an income tax school sponsored by the Franklin High school chapter, Future Farmers of America.

Paul Baxley, 904 E. College avenue, narrowly escaped death when his car stalled on the Wabash tracks at the Howe street crossing. He got out in time, but the car was wrecked.

20 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunter, rural route 3, will spend the winter in Long Beach, Calif.

Dean Roma Hawkins of MacMurray College addressed the Roodhouse P.T.A. Monday evening.

Miss Lavinia Scott left New York City for Durban and Inanda, Africa, after a furlough in the states. She is a missionary teacher.

50 YEARS AGO

Mr. Dr. Franken of Chandlerville was trading here yesterday.

The Farmers & Merchants bank of Concord opened for business last week. It is a private bank, with capital stock of $10,000. Among the persons interested in the corporation are Fred George and Hermann Engelbach of Arenzville.

75 YEARS AGO

Those two cows are in the stray pen again. They are "old timers" and it requires an extra fastening on the gate to keep them in.

Miss Tillie Rothwell, one of the accomplished young ladies of Jerseyville, was married on Tuesday to Mr. J. R. Colean, a prominent young banker of that city.

John A. Strawn and James G. Strawn of Orleans were in town yesterday.

THOUGHTS

I will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not enter into the city.—Hosea 11:9.

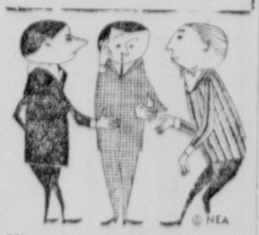
Manners Make Friends



If you are introducing two good friends of yours go ahead and use their first names in making the introduction. It will sound much easier and more casual to introduce Jane Smith and Doris Jones than to introduce Miss Smith and Mrs. Jones.

And the less stilted the introduction the better.

Family Argument Can Signal Sturdy and Happy Marriage

James Thurber, who has the delightful knack of being able to make us laugh at ourselves, has come up with an article, "My Own Rules for a Happy Marriage," in Reader's Digest.

It is sure to get appreciative chuckles from both husbands and wives.

The rules are as sound as they are funny. But there is one rule for a happy marriage that Mr. Thurber neglected to mention: "Never be afraid to have a fight."

A good, fair, marital row now and then with no verbal punches pulled and no bitter pills sugar-coated is the best way in the world for a husband and wife to remain a devoted couple.

A good honest fight clears the air of resentments, gets plain truths out in the open, and lets a man and woman get an honest look at each other and at themselves.

It's the husband and wife who are afraid to do battle occasionally who snipe at each other in public and tell their troubles to anyone willing to listen.

The husbands and wives who aren't above taking little digs at each other in front of their friends and who air their frustrations to any listening ear are the husbands and wives who are too "civilized" to battle out their problems at home as they arise.

You can be pretty sure that the Smiths who aren't afraid to blow their tops will be living together until the end of their days.

But you'd better not make any bets on the Browns who are as polite to each other as strangers, and who have never stooped to a really good "Now-you-listen-to-me-for-a-minute," fist-pounding, door-banging, family argument.

Happy Times

Keep Young Friends, Advises Prominent Octagenarian

BY MARIE DAERR

Owning the longest car on the block won't guarantee you happiness in your later years.

But 80-year old Dame Kathleen Courtney, a tiny, energetic Englishwoman, has no doubt about what DOES put the gold into the golden years.

Just a few minutes' conversation with this diminutive octagenarian, who recently flew home to London after an extensive lecture tour in the eastern United States, convinces you Dame Kathleen knows what she is talking about.

What are the things Dame Kathleen, an expert on world affairs, considers important?

"Friends," she said, "and not all from my own age group.

"I'm going to be realistic. It's sad but true that, when you are 80, not many of your old schoolmates are around.

"I've made friends in younger age groups. They keep me young because they are looking forward to the future, instead of backward at the past.

"All my life, I've been so interested in other people, I haven't had time to think about myself.

"The fanciest TV set in the world isn't going to keep you from being lonely. But having a genuine concern about other people will do the trick.

"Speaking of TV, being in America has made me wonder about today's emphasis on material things. It seems to me too many people are convinced they can't possibly exist without every product they see or hear advertised."

Dame Kathleen—that title given her by Queen Elizabeth is equivalent to "knight"—is thankful for health. Slender and bright-eyed, she thinks that looking after your physical "machine" while you are young pays off in later years.

"I can give a lecture at noon, be interviewed in the afternoon, attend a dinner party and then be on hand before nine the next morning for a talk to a school assembly," said Dame Kathleen. "And I'm young enough to be planning a jet flight for my next trip across the ocean."

Spiritual values are high on her list.

"The fact that so many people rush to hear evangelists preach proves they are looking for something they can't buy at the store," said Dame Kathleen. "Certainly, bread alone isn't the answer to our needs—at any time of life."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Jesus and His Helpers

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

During the early years of my editorship in Boston, a regular contributor to the CONGREGATIONALIST was the late Dr. William E. Barton, distinguished minister of Oak Park, Ill., biographer of Lincoln and an oustanding authority on the Lincoln period.

Dr. Barton appeared every week as author of a syndicated column of his own parables, and reached a wide circle of readers.

Their homely and keen wisdom never appealed to readers who lacked a sense of humor, but they came near to being 100 per cent in reader interest.

More widely known is Bruce Barton, the advertising tycoon. I think of him now, and of the heritage he had from his father, because of a book he wrote some years ago, "The Man Nobody Knows." It was a very striking approach to the life and ministry of Jesus, and it created considerable interest, and also considerable controversy.

I never took much stock in Barton's portrayal of Jesus as a sort of glorified business executive, but he did emphasize an aspect of the ministry and work of Jesus that most readers of, and commentators upon, the Gospels had missed: the extent to which Jesus was very definitely an organizer as well as a minister and teacher.

As one reads the Gospels I think one gets an impression of the spontaneity, and even casualness, of much that occurred even in connection with the most important messages and teachings.

There seems so little evidence of preparation and planning in the wanderings with the Twelve in villages and fields, talks from a boat near the shore of a lake, and the sermons on a mountain side. We think of it all mostly, too, in connection with the Twelve.

And then, in the impression of the unplanned happenings, we are brought up short by Mr. Barton's clear emphasis upon Jesus as very definitely an organizer.

It is apparent that He did not seem to have established a school or have founded an institution in the modern way. But the method of organization was definite, marking the way in which the Christian Church was to become established and grow toward world conquest.

It began with the organization of the Twelve. They did not just go about with Jesus and listen to Him, Mark 6:7 tells how Jesus sent them out two-by-two, giving them very definite instructions. When one considers how slow the Disciples were even up to the time of the death of Jesus, to grasp much that was deepest and most essential in His teaching, one wonders just what the two-by-two taught in their mission.

But good men can accomplish much in their goodness, and in addition to teaching repentance they were helpful toward the distressed and sick (Mark 6:12-13).

An interesting matter is that the most important fact concerning Jesus as an organizer, the appointment of "seventy also," is recorded only by St. Luke (Luke 10). Like the Twelve they, also, were to go two-by-two, and Luke throws much light on their instructions, and upon the success of their mission.

The method of Jesus as well as His proclamation of the Gospel and teaching has been the way of Christian progress. Organization and faith have gone hand in hand.

The power of organization was in John Wesley's founding of Methodism, and others of conviction have been founders through effective organization.

Rocket Patrol Serial—

The Rings Of Saturn

By Rip Barnsdall

Synopsis—The asteroid damage to the ship has been repaired. Observation of Saturn's moons resulted in the recommendation that they not be used for colonization by earthmen.

Chapter 3: Near Outside Ring

"It's the same story that is true also of Jupiter's moons, Rick," said Bob. "Mostly barren rock."

"Pulling in towards the rings," came the announcement over the pilot loudspeaker.

All available portviewers were filled with personnel of the ship. A close-up view of Saturn's rings was something they all wanted to see.

Back in ancient times when telescopes were first used on earth astronomers found the rings of Saturn one of the most impressive sights in the sky. Although not known for sure, the three separate rings were thought to have been moons of Saturn at one time, and that to have exploded for some reason or other. This was similar to the asteroids that ran their course between Mars and Jupiter.

As the ship neared the outside ring for closer observation, the ship's personnel noted, through magnitelescopes, that the chunks were all fairly small in size. Since there were so many of them and since they were so close together, it was natural that from a great distance they would appear to be a solid circle.

Bob showed a simple experiment to a few of the crew members who had just graduated from the Academy. "Here," he explained, "I'll draw a number of black dots on this piece of paper. When you look at it closely you can see the separate dots, but when I take it over to the far corner of the room the dots seem to blend together into a solid circle. That's the same way these moon chunks would look to a telescope observor back on earth."

The ship travelled just over eighty thousand miles to pass over the three separate rings of moon chunks, and was on the outskirts of Saturn's gravity belt.

To View Saturn

Bob called into Hank, "Since we didn't do any actual exploring on any of the moons or moon chunks, we might as well take a look on Saturn itself. Make sure you adjust for the gravity field."

"Right," called back Hank. "I'll have the navigator locate a landing plain."

Engine flow was reversed as the ship pointed its tail towards massive Saturin, second largest planet in the solar system.

At an altitude of 100,000 feet, Farmer cut the ship into a circling orbit. A small landing craft rocket was then readied inside the ship.

It would have been guite costly to take the big rocket in because of the terrific gravity field of Saturn. On this planet as on Jupiter, an earth man would weigh eight to ten times as much as on earth.

A rocket would have no difficulty in landing, but a tremendous amount of fuel would have to be expended in taking off.

The landing craft rocket pushed off and made its ascent to the surface of Saturn, where it made a tail landing on a shiny, flat plain. The four officials and two of the crew made ready to step out on the surface of Saturn.

Light weight, heavy insulated suits were used, and as they stepped out they could feel the terrific cold of the planet. Even with the sun shining faintly in the sky, the temperature was well below 200 degrees below zero according to the temperature instruments they were carrying.

GO TO CHURCH

MOON TRAIN

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

When the Moon's settlements get large enough to begin shipping ore, and other similar bulky things, they will want to build railroads so they can ship these cheaper.

In the mountain regions of the Moon, it would be almost impossible to lay ordinary railroad track so the Moon Railroad will probably be a mono-rail (one rail) with this single rail stretched between supporting towers with the trains hung beneath the rail.

These trains would be powered by either motors similar to the Moon cars or by electricity from wires along the side of the rail. The engines and passenger cars of these trains would be cylinders with meteor shields stretched between their tracks above them.

The cars for carrying things which need to be kept in something like a normal Earth condition would be spherical and have shields. Other cars would probably look like the railroad cars on Earth except that they would have meteor shields and would have their trucks above instead of below them.

If there ever are any cattle on the Moon, cars for these would have to be pressurized too.

The cars used to explore the Moon will also be carried by expeditions to explore other planets.

Next we'll tell you about LIVING ON MARS.

LITTLE FOLKS COLORING CONTEST

SILENCE AND SONG

By Emma Mae Leonhard

The morning of December 6 was brittle cold in spite of the clear sunshine. In fact, the yellow sunshine was cold too. The white-capped waves on Lake Mauvaisterre were slapping against the edge of the field of ice and building up an irregular heap of frozen water.

We saw no birds except two black Crows—of course all Crows are black—flapping nonchalantly over the aluminum-gray of the frozen water; and three Ring-billed Gulls riding the dark blue of the open water. The Gulls' whiteness rivaled the white of the white caps; the blackness in their wing pattern matched the blackness of the Crows. Black, gray, blue, and white were a part of the cold lake.

We listened for some bird song or calls; but the Crows wouldn't "caw," and the Gulls wouldn't "kee-ow." Tight cold silence reigned, and the cold wind hit into our cheeks and reddened our noses.

We decided to seek a more sheltered spot and to hope for bird song there. At least we were curious to learn what birds would be defiant enough of the cold to sing. We drove to the Boddy hill and began a hike down the hill and along the Mauvaisterre stream. It was just as cold there, but the biting wind was finally blocked by the woods and the wooded hills.

We listened again for bird calls. At first we heard only the cracking and the squeaking of cold branches on bare trees. Finally along the frozen trail we caught the "click" of the Slate-colored Junco, the "peck" of the Hairy Woodpecker, the thin "see-see" of the tiny Golden-crowned Kinglet, and the sassy "dee-dee-dee" of the busy Chickadee.

These calls were not bird songs, but they satisfied us. We had found what we were listening for—bird calls to break the cold silence.

Then we retraced our steps. As we were driving along the side road which leads past Mr. Chester Thomason's home, we noticed much bird activity along the grassy fence row and in the brush and trees beyond the fence, wonderful protection for land birds. The meadow on the right seemed to be filled with birds, mostly sparrows, that were searching for the weed seeds which would keep them from freezing.

Surprising Sight

We rolled down the car windows to see more clearly. We saw the expected English Sparrows, the Juncos, and a few European Tree Sparrows. Then, to our surprise, we found, with the help of our binoculars, a White-crowned Sparrow in the flock of winter birds.

Another one flew up from the grass onto the fence. We saw more feeding in the meadow. There in December we were enjoying the very White-crowned Sparrows that we had searched for in vain around our lakes in October and November.

Just seeing them was enough; it didn't even occur to us to hope for any song from these unexpected winter visitants. Then from the fence row floated on the stillness a clear bird song, first a short refrain of long drawn-out sweet, plaintive notes like those of the better known White-throated Sparrow, followed by a husky trilled whistle which joined the silence of the cold.

We were privileged to hear the song several times while no other birds were singing. We were fortunately privileged to hear this sweet song accompanied by the harp of silence.

What more could a birder wish for in December? Yes, some birds are brave enough to break the silence of the cold with their song. Are you?

MINCE PIE

Poem By
Mabel Hall Goltra

When you've chopped the rosy apples,
And measured out the spice,
And cut the citron smaller
Than the most expensive dice,
When great raisins and small currants
Have swollen with the heat,
And you've added other "small fry"
To the finest cuts of meat,
And stirred the whole ambitiously,
Then made a tempting crust,
And made that first home-made mince pie,
You'll ask us down we trust.

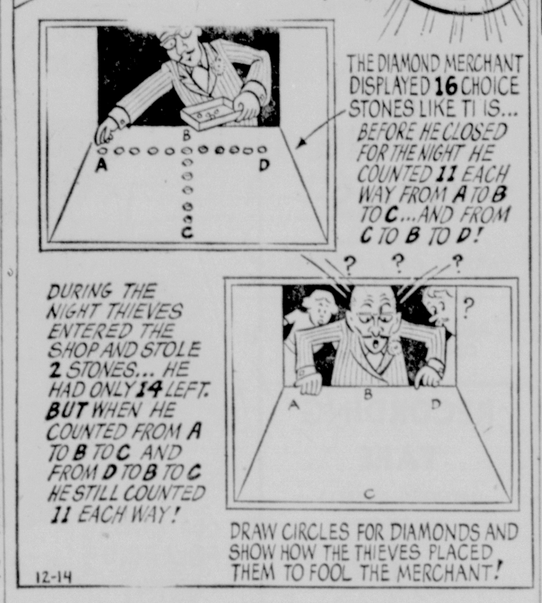
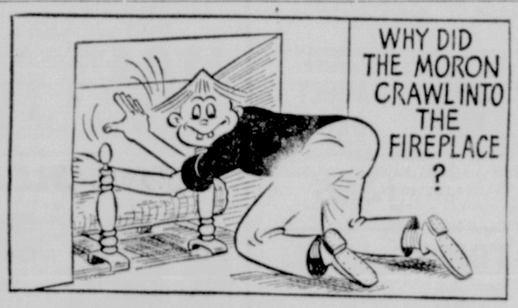
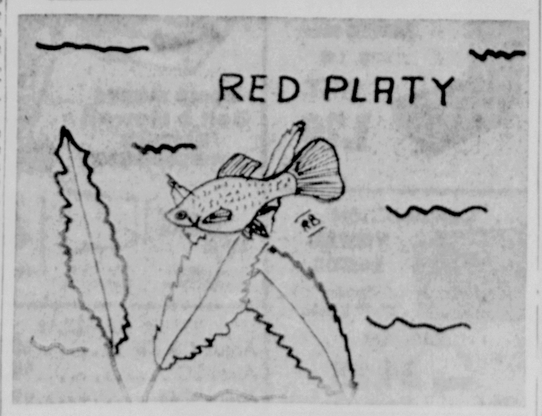
MINUTE MYSTERY — THE DIAMOND THEFT CASE







THE RED PLATY

By Rip Barnsdall

Next to the Guppy, this is perhaps the most popular of aquarium fishes. Scientifically known as Platypoecilus maculatus, it comes from a wide area in Mexico.

The wild strain was a greenish-brown in color, but through selective breeding, aquarists have developed many color phases. The most popular is the Red, but there are also Blues, Blacks, Golds, and mixtures.

Platys reach a length of one to two inches when full grown. They are live-bearers, with a female having usually one to twenty at one time.

The babies, when born, are quite small. They take about three times as long as young Guppies to grow into adults.

Must Watch Temperature

In recent years, the cause unknown, Red Platys have become quite susceptible to temperature changes. For this reason aquarists are cautioned to watch the aquarium temperature carefully.

Platys are good community fishes, eat all foods, and are colorful. The Red Platy is more an orange-red in color, rather than a general red.

Canada was ceded to England in 1762. But, the French stayed there.

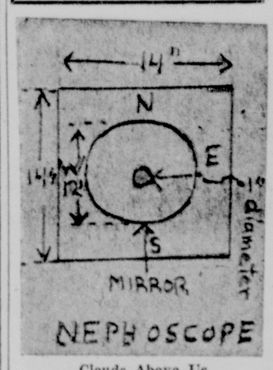
How To Be A Weatherman

By Joe Smith



Clouds Above Us

While air temperature must always be taken in the shade, one should, naturally, observe the type, height, direction, and rate of travel of a cloud out in the open.

To observe this direction and speed of any cloud we can make a simple NEPHOSCOPE from a 12" in diameter round shaped mirror, a 14" square piece of plywood, and a one inch diameter piece of black tape cut into the shape of a circle.

Center the round mirror on the piece of plywood, put the circular shaped piece of tape in the exact center, and mark board as the above diagram illustrates. To use: Lay on flat surface, watch in the mirror for a cloud, then follow the edge of one from the center of the edge of the mirror and observe direction; use the higher clouds always.

We should know by sight at least four major types of clouds since from them we can learn much about our future weather.

Types Of Clouds

First the CIRRUS. These feather-like, thin, and delicate white clouds are always very high above us (20,000 to 40,000 feet) and are usually the forerunner of a mass of warmer air. They may forecast showers within 36 to 48 hours from the time first seen.

Second: STRATUS. In much the same way that icing covers a cake, stratus clouds are a solid layer of clouds that cover the visible surface of the earth. Generally they are about 1,000 feet above the ground; precipitation usually may be expected within 24 hours.

Third: CUMULUS. These clouds remind us of huge masses of cotton; they are large, thick, and fluffy. Within them one may find high and destructive winds as well as lightning.

The sudden appearance of these clouds in the spring and summer clearly indicate brief and intense showers very soon; especially when the bottom of them darken and the tops of them form an "Anvil."

A few smaller ones scattered about during summer generally indicates fair weather.

Rain Clouds

Last the NIMBUS. This is the so called "Rain Cloud." It is easily recognizable by its black-ish appearance; it generally is found directly underneith either the Cumulus or the Stratus clouds. Such a combination is called either a Cumulo-Nimbus or a Nimbo-Stratus.

Within the Nimbus cloud one finds by far the greatest amount of the moisture which will make up our precipitation. Both the Cumulus and the Nimbus clouds are forerunners of cold air masses thus indicating somewhat cooler temperatures are nearby.

The Nimbo-Stratus is generally a warm air mass cloud; the Cumulo-Nimbus a Cold air cloud.

There are at least eight more types or variations of these four Basic Types; any book on weather as well as the Boy Scout Merit Badge Pamplet on weather will give these to you. The better you can read the clouds the easier it is to forecast the weather.

Don't forget that the direction in which the upper clouds are moving is important as it points out the direction from which our weather is coming and pretty well what it will be.

Can You Solve These Puzzles?

By Joseph A. Smith

Long Walk

A certain boy lived in the country some distance from his friend's home. He would arrive at a friend's home at five p.m. each day and be met by his father and together they would drive to their home, arriving there around six p.m.

However, one day he arrived at his friend's home earlier, around four p.m. and, finding no one at home, he decided not to wait for his father to pick him up. So he left at once walking home.

After walking some distance, he was met by his father. They turned around and drove straight home arriving there ten minutes earlier than usual.

Now can you tell me how long the boy had walked BEFORE he was picked up by his father. (Answer below.)

The Garden

There once lived a wealthy suburbanite of a large city who, in the process of landscaping a new home and ground site, ordered twenty trees which he decided, after much thought, to plant in five rows of four trees each.

But, as is so often true, such was not to be for he received only ten trees in the shipment. Still determined to have five rows of four trees in each row he finally came up with a solution to his predicament. Can you?

Try This

So you think you have nerves of steel do you, well try this one. Place a sheet of paper on a table and a mirror propped up behind it.

Now sit down in a chair, take pencil in hand, and proceed to draw a square and an "X" inside while watching what you're doing in the mirror ONLY. I dare say you are in for a surprise!

Answer to problem No. 1: 55 minutes. Problem No. 2: Plan along the lines of a five pointed star.

Night In Winter

It almost makes you shiver to look at this picture Steven Wicks has drawn of a pine tree standing in the snow as the big winter moon shines on it. Steven drew this when he was 7 years old and in the second grade last year. He is the son of Mose Wicks who is on the Jacksonville Police Force.

Steven may come in any time now for his JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD which any of you boys and girls can earn by sending in a drawing (all your own work and 4 inches square), or something you have written.

Mystery Serial—

Muzzle-Loading Gun

By Loella Sloan Young

Synopsis: Daddy tells George and Billy of the mysterious note in the old muzzle-loading shotgun he got from their Great-Grandfather. He also tells them about the constable coming just after Great-Grandfather has slipped out some slaves who are escaping by the "underground railway".

Chapter 7: Will They Search?

"'I'm sorry, Mrs. Young,' apologized the Constable. 'This man has come from a Mr. Plennage in Mississippi. It seems a slave and his wife, belonging to Mr. Plennage escaped some time ago. Mr. Renoit here, says he has traced them to this vicinity. Last night he was sure he would soon capture them, when they slipped away from him again.'

"'Well,' said Great-Grandmother indignantly, while her heart pounded so loudly she thought these two men must surely hear it, 'what has that to do with me?'

"Mr. Renoit," the Constable explained "is sure they are somewhere on this farm!"

"In this house! the thin man added rudely. "In this very house, Madam!"

"I told you to let me handle this," Constable Winters warned the man. "You see," he explained turning to Great-Grandmother, "Mr. Renoit has a warrant to search your home!"

"Search my home!" she exclaimed in surprise. "Why Constable Winters, surely you wouldn't search my home when Will is gone," Great-Grandmother cried.

"Weeeel," hesitated the Constable.

"Ah, Ha!!!" cried the lawman excitedly. "And just where is that husband of yours," he gloated.

"I'm not about to tell such a rude person as you" snorted Great - Grandmother indignatly. "But I will tell the Constable here," she went on, "He knows how to treat a lady, Constable," she said," some of our cows got out of the barn. It's such a cold night, and Will and Shep have gone to bring them back to the shelter of the barn."

"Oh," said Constable Winters proud of the way Great-Grandmother had spoken of him, "How long will he be gone, do you think?" "Time! Time!" squealed the lawman impatiently. "While we're standing here chatting with this woman, the slaves I have tracked for days are getting away!!!"

"Come into the dining room where it is warm," Great-Grandmother invited the two men graciously. "Will, will be back shortly, and I will put some hot coffee on the stove for all of us."

Constable Winters mentioned to the angry lawman to follow him as he accepted Great-Grandmother's invitation. Great-Grandmother and the Constable had been chatting for some time, while the lawman nervously tapped the floor with his foot and peered out the window from time to time.

Hears Door Open

"At last Great-Grandmother heard the back door open, and Great-Grandfather's warm voice calling her, "Margaret," he called, "Do we have company at this hour?" he asked,

Breathing a sigh of relief, Great - Grandmother answered him, "Yes, Will, Constable Winters and another man are here to see you."

"Sorry I've kept you waiting," sold Great-Grandfather entering the dining room still carrying his trusty shotgun in his arm. Reaching high over the mantel, he replaced the gun upon its pegs. "Now, gentlemen," he greeted them, "what can I do for you?"

"When Constable Winters had finished the introductions, he explained to Great-Grandfather just why they had come.

"You are welcome to search my home," agreed Great-Grandfather, "but you can take my word that we are harboring no slaves here."

"And where have you been yourself, so late at night?" queried the supicious lawman from Mississippi.

The French Girl Who Came To Live Here

By Melma Huckeby Ewert

Frances Celeste Ellis, for whom Illinois College's new dormitory for women is named, was born in France and came to Jacksonville as a bride. She and her children died in an epidemic, but the women of that early day wanted to carry out her dream for educating young ladies. (Most people didn't take much interest in teaching girls in those days.)

Part 4: A Plan

Illinois College was four years old that year of 1833, and on October the fourth, the faculty ladies met, in a classroom of The Female Academy, wearing their long, straight dresses and pretty bonnets. They met to continue a plan that Frances Celeste Ellis had suggested when they met in her home in August 1832.

Frances Celeste had laid her plans so well, "to find ways to help poor young women to be educated for teachers," (that was the frontier problem) so that now these women were meeting to go on with the plan.

Mrs. Lyman Beecher, wife of President Beecher, was there. Mrs. Julian Sturtevant, wife of the first professor, came. She was a bride, and Fairweather had been her name.

First Woman's Club

This, the first woman's club, organized in the United States, has had an unbroken existence. In 1933 The Ladies Education Society Centennial was celebrated honoring Frances Celeste Ellis.

The Society's original purpose remains: "A Woman's Organization working for advancement of women." Frances Celeste Ellis, the little French girl, is a beautiful symbol of the culture of Jacksonville women.

White Hall Decorates For Christmas Season

WHITE HALL—Main Street is unusually festive for the Christmas season, due credit going to the White Hall Jaycees Club, the City Council and the local merchants. The power poles have been wrapped with tinsel topped by red decorative bows, and beautiful ropes of tinsel, with stars and Christmas bells at intervals, with a double streamer criss crossing at the intersection of Main and Sherman Streets.

These ropes of tinsel with decorations are placed at various distances through the business district, and are lighted by myriads of multi-color bulbs. Strings of lights and a huge Christmas tree have been placed in Whiteside Park where Santa Claus will hold forth beginnnng on Saturday night.

The regular meeting of the Jaycees Club was held at Myrt's Cafe on Tuesday night, with 20 members and one guest present. Announcement was made of the Christmas bingo to be held at the old high school gymnasium on Dec. 18th and a vote of thanks given the C.I.P.S. Co. employees for their assistance in arranging the Christmas decorations in the local business district.

Jerseyville Schools Are Relatively Safe, Fire Chief Reports

JERSEYVILLE—A recheck of Jerseyville schools was made this week in the wake of the disastrous Chicago school fire which claimed the lives of more than 90 pupils and teachers. The Jerseyville fire department made an inspection in October, but made the recheck during the week.

Fire Chief Edward Weule made the following statement relative to existing situation in Jerseyville schools: "Points of ignition were found generally in the improper storage of flammable materials in furnace rooms and rooms unprotected by fire proof walls and ceilings and in waste paper, etc., which should not be allowed to collect. However, the housekeeping would be considered fair to good. Heating plants and wiring were in good condition.

"Means of evacuation left much to be desired except at the West Elementary school, Jersey Community High school and the Holy Ghost school. These schools revealed few, if any complications.

"At the new East Elementary school, the fire alarm system was not functioning and exit signs were unlighted and lacked several exit directional signs.

Most Hazardous

"The old East Elementary school had the greatest evacuation problems. The fire alarm system is definitely inadequate and the procedure of evaluation does not meet with the fire department's approval. Points of exit do not have panic hardware, but are greatly hampered by gate hooks in most cases.

"The South State Parochial school also has evacuation problems. There is an inadequate fire alarm system and extremely crowded class rooms prevent proper space for aisles to exit. A telephone should be installed in this building.

"The fire department realizes that with all safety precautions we will still have fires. On this theory, we would suggest a fire detection system. This no doubt would be the greatest safety factor in preventing loss of life and property damage. Not only would it eliminate the human responsibility of turning in a fire alarm, but would guard every room of a building at all times. It would also allow those precious moments for evacuation as well as alerting the fire department so they could respond while the fire was in its early stage.

Fireman Praised

"The Fire Department is indebted to Fireman Paul Miller for his efforts. Mr. Miller was not only present at all city school inspections, but inspected all the schools in Jersey county last October at his own expense."

Hillview Legion Auxiliary Plans Christmas Party

HILLVIEW—The American Legion Auxiliary of the Bryant-Thomas Post in Hillview called a special meeting Dec. 5 and met in the home of Mrs. Mary Smothers with president Mrs. Maude Norris presiding.

The purpose of the meeting was to formulate plans for the Christmas party for members and their children on Dec. 18 and the coming bazaar and soup and chilli supper all day Saturday, Dec. 20. The bazaar, soup and chilli service is an annual affair. Proceeds go toward the rehabilitation program sponsored by the Auxiliary.

Checks were donated for the White Hall Hospital's drive for funds and toward the monument that is to be erected over the hull of the U.S.S. Arizona, one of the battleships sunk in Pearl Harbor by the Japanese. The Bryant-Thomas Post carries the name of two boys of Hillview that were on the Arizona and went down with their ship while on duty.

WHERE'S THE PLUG? — Like the drain of some giant tub, this gaping mouth, 25 yards in diameter, swallows torrents of water in a valley of Northern Ireland's Mourne Mountains. Lined with huge concrete blocks, it funnels reservoir waters to the city of Belfast.

Dave Beck To Get Bill After Union Books Audited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union monitors, armed with new cleanup powers, plan an audit to determine how much former union boss Dave Beck Sr. still owes the union. They then will present him with a bill.

Martin F. O'Donohue, monitor chairman, said "We are going to have an outside auditing firm look into this."

O'Donoghue generally declined to go into monitor plans following a federal court ruling here that gave the monitors broad powers, backed by court enforcement, to engage in a general Teamsters union "housecleaning."

The monitor chairman did disclose the overseer group will again press for early ouster trials for Owen (Bert) Brennan of Detroit, a Teamsters national vice president, and Ray Cohen, Philadelphia union boss.

Beck, who once said he had taken about $400,000 in Teamsters funds but was paying it back, is on trial i Seattle for federal income tax evasion. Brennan and Cohen invoked the Fifth Omendment at Senate Rackets Committee hearings when asked about u ion fund expenditures.

O'Donoghue said he felt the court decision here means that the Teamsters' own anti-racketeering commission, headed by ex-Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio), will fade out of business.

He said the Bender group has reported to Teamsters President James R. Hoffa the union is not infested with racketeers. The monitors don't agree.

Bender declined to comment on how the new court decision may affect his group's future. The Bender commission was named by Hoffa to conduct an investigation. Bender wrote letters to all Teamsters locals asking if anything was wrong and, if so, to report it to his commission. Apparently all the locals replied negatively.

His Pipe Dream Has Come True

By DAN VALENTINE
NEA Special Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY — (NEA) — Take a pile of battered pipes, add an assortment of wires, wheels, valves and pedals, wrap them together with hard work and patience in an old chicken coop — and what have you got?

Well, if you were Lawrence Bray of Salt Lake City, you'd have the sweetest sounding pile of junk in town—a giant, hand-assembled pipe organ.

Bray confesses that he's been crazy about organs for as long as he can remember, and started dreaming about owning one of his own when he was a teen-ager.

Now a big pipe organ — which is what Lawrence wanted — can cost thousands of dollars. But if buying one was out of the question, building one was not.

• • •

Lawrence began collecting stray organ parts in the late 1930's, but didn't really get going on the project until he returned to Salt Lake from four years of Navy service in 1946. A music salesman by day, he took up his organ hunt at night.

He tracked down a mammoth theater organ that had seen its best days, bought if for $750, and took it apart.

It was a mess of wood, leather, wire and tin. Many of the pipes were bent and broken; wires, wheels and valves had been ripped out.

A little discouraged, but still confident, Lawrence stored the mess in an abandoned chicken coop owned by his uncle, and began resurrecting the instrument.

"It sounded all right," Lawrence admits, "but I wanted more volume, more intensity."

• • •

So he started organ-hunting again. Luck was with him. He came across a battered organ in an abandoned theater. It, too, went to the chicken coop. Later, he added another old organ and an assortment of parts.

Lawrence started to fit all the new parts into the giant musical jig-saw puzzle. Some didn't match. They had to be hand-shaped, practically made over again.

And he discovered he didn't have a place for the new enlarged instrument. He bought the chicken coop and built a second story on it.

LAWRENCE BRAY: He's mastered "Chopsticks."

Finally, the organ was completed, without a doubt the largest home-made organ in the world. Experts claim it is one of the most complete musical instruments ever built.

• • •

The Bray organ has an audio range span from 30 cycles to 16,000 cycles. The press of a single key can unleash 60 tones, and with both hands, an organist can strike a chord combining 500 notes at one time.

To date, the organ has cost Lawrence $1,200. It is valued at $10,000.

He holds occasional recitals, featuring leading organists in the Salt Lake area, but Lawrence never plays at them.

You see, his repertoire is somewhat limited.

He can build an organ, but the only tune he can play is "Chopsticks"—and that with one finger.

Are Auto Accidents A Mental Problem?

Doctors Believe Driver's Personality Is the Key Factor

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

MEDICAL RESEARCHERS ARE SEEKING to find out if the mental attitude of drivers is responsible for automobile wrecks like the above, in which six members of one family were killed.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Medical research specialists have started a unique scientific investigation to stamp out automobile accidents.

Their entry into the field of auto accident prevention stems from the revolutionary idea that the nation's highway slaughter should be regarded as a mysterious disease like cancer.

The problem of finding out why the motorized menace infects some drivers and bypasses others has captured the interest of doctors throughout the country and won support from Uncle Sam's Public Health Service. PHS is currently spending about $260,000 to help finance projects in this field.

Recent accident statistics show that 80 per cent of all traffic smash-ups are caused by faulty driving. Many doctors, however, view reckless acts like speeding, improper passing and driving on the wrong side of the road, as merely symptoms of the mechanized disease killer.

• • •

They believe that the real causes eventually will be found hidden in a driver's mental makeup. It has been strongly suspected for some time that negative attitudes or intense emotions, like fear and anger, cause people to have accidents.

But the exact role which these states of mind play in the annual highway bloodbath in not known. To find out, scientists have established numerous research projects which specialize in probing the minds of American motorists.

A battery of psychological tests is being given by experts of the University of Colorado's Medical School to about 4,000 Denver high school students in an effort to learn how to locate potentially dangerous drivers before they ever get behind a steering wheel.

Psychologists are especially eager to find out if one of these tests uncovers the same information concerning the school kids as it did about several Air Force enlisted men.

• • •

When given to the military personnel in an earlier study, the test revealed that the safe drivers were usually very religious and had relatively little interest in subjects dealing with art, music or drama. Just the opposite was true of men who had committed one or more traffic violations.

The Harvard Medical School is thoroughly studying the life histories of another group of adolescents to find out what significant differences exist between safe and reckless drivers.

Other studies have shown that accidents repeaters are often people who have deep-seated feelings of hostility. They have also revealed that aggressive tendencies, tenseness and fear of criticism are major factors in the personalities of reckless drivers.

Northwestern University is conducting a long-range project which calls for a physician, engineer and psychologist to investigate certain traffic accidents in the Chicago area. A thorough analysis will be made of their findings to determine both mechanical and human failures that play the biggest part in accidents.

What this study reveals about the general health of smash-up victims will be anxiously awaited by doctors who believe the unknown causes of collisions may prove to be physical as well as mental.

These specialists believe that studies should be made to find out if serious ailments like heart disease and diabetes hamper a person's driving ability. Also, they favor more research to determine how certain drugs and medicines affect a driver's reaction time.

Doctors believe that pinpointing the actual human failures that cause accidents will help traffic administrators to keep unsafe drivers off the roads. They also think that specialized treatment will eventually be developed that will help cure these motorists of their faults.

MARQUETTE DUCK HUNTERS WONDER: WHERE ARE THEY?

JERSEYVILLE—Duck hunters reported the cold wave of the current week brought very little increase in the number of ducks in the Marquette shooting district, in western Jersey, Greene and Calhoun area.

Duck hunting in the locality has generally been poor this season with hunters living in hopes of large flights of waterfowl from the north with the advent of severe weather in the northern localities.

Now with the cold weather finally blasting the northern areas, the ducks have still failed to put in an appearance, and hunters are drawing the conclusion that the waterfowl either do not exist in the numbers estimated early in the fall or the flights have followed another flyway to the southern wintering quarters.

Jacks Triumph; MacMurray, Routt And Illinois Deaf Lose

Edwardsville Bows To Maroa, 54-53; JHS Routs Highland 78-44

A bucket by Larry James with seven seconds left to play gave Maroa a 54-53 win over Edwardsville Friday night at the JHS Bowl in the opening round of Jacksonville High's four team invitational tournament.

And in the nightcap, the host Crimsons smothered a helpless Highland aggregation, 78-44.

Joe Lucco's Tigers held a 13-12 lead after the first quarter on a bucket by Myron Schumacher in the final 16 seconds. Two buckets by Schumacher in the final minute of play in the second quarter gave the Tigers a three point spread at halftime, 29-26.

Herm Edwards' Trojans came on strong in the third stanza to keep pace and tie the Tigers at 39-all with 53 seconds left on a tally by James.

A free throw by Gary McClung, who made 14 of 14 attempts for the game, gave Maroa a 40-39 margin and Edwardsville never saw the lead for the remainder of the third chapter.

The nip and tuck final canto saw the lead change hands four times and the last time it happened came with seven seconds left in the game. That's when a James bucket decided the outcome and Maroa's fifth win without a loss. Gary McClung captured scoring honors for the game with 22 points. Myron Schumacher's 16 was high for the losers.

Easy Triumph

John Chapman's Crimsons took the opening tip and scored eight seconds later on Mike Hudson's jump tally to win going away from Highland in the second game before a comparatively small crowd, 78-44.

The Jacks doubled their score midway through the second frame, 30-10, and Chapman began clearing his bench. JHS hit 18 of 42 shots in the first half for a 43 per cent average while Highland hit only 18 per cent of its shots.

The winners hit 33 of 59 tries in the game for a respectable 47 per cent shooting average. Highland had 13 of 66 for 20 per cent.

Jim Keller's 16 points gained him individual scoring honors for the Jacks and for the game.

Rockets Fall Before Cathedral Five, 73-30

SPRINGFIELD — The Routt Rockets went down to stunning defeat at the hands of a strong Cathedral five on the Springfield floor Friday night 73 to 30.

Coach Bob Winstead's cagers were colder than the weather in the first period scoring only two points on one field goal. The Cyclones were racking up 18 points in this initial period to take a commanding lead that they never relinquished.

Routt fared little better in the second frame, netting only seven points for a total of nine at the half. The Jim Belz crew led at the half 33 to 9. Four Cathedral players broke into double figures in the tilt with Martin leading all scoring with 15 tallies. Fred Curts led the Rockets with 12 points.

Coach Winstead rates the Cyclones as one of the best teams he has seen all year and reports that they could be a state threat if they continue to play the brand of ball that they have shown so far. The Cathedral lads shot around 75% in the first half which is real fine scoring ability for any team. This was Cathedral's fifth win without a defeat and Routt now has a 2 and 3 record.

Something's Gotta Go When Browns Battle Giants

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Something's gotta give in Yankee Stadium Sunday when the Cleveland Browns, the best road club in the National Football League, take on the New York Giants, one of the top clutch teams, in the highlight of the final program of the regular season.

A victory for the Browns will send them into the title game against Baltimore, the Western Conference champ, Dec. 28. A triumph for New York will necessitate a playoff with Cleveland next Sunday in New York. Cleveland leads the Eastern Conference with a 9-2 mark while the Giants are 8-3.

Both of the Browns' setbacks came on home grounds—17-21 to the Giants and 10-30 to the Detroit Lions. Cleveland has won five games without a setback on enemy gridirons.

The Giants lost when least expected, first to the Philadelphia Eagles, then to the Chicago Cards and Pittsburgh. But to remain in contention, Jim Lee Howell's men turned back the Browns in their first meeting Nov. 2, beat Baltimore Nov. 9, and won another "must" game against Detroit last Sunday with a final period rally.

Pittsburgh and the Cardinals kick off the last weekend of the campaign Saturday in a nationally televised (CBS, 1:30 p.m., EST) game. In Sunday's other games, Baltimore is at San Francisco, Detroit at the Chicago Bears, Green Bay at Los Angeles and Philadelphia at Washington.

Except for the Giants-Browns tussle, which is expected to attract a crowd of more than 70,000, the most important ones are in Chicago and Los Angeles. The Bears and Rams are tied for second place in the Western Conference at 7-4.

The Rams will be seeking their fifth victory in a row over Green Bay, whom they defeated 20-7 in their first meeting this year. The Bears beat Detroit 20-7 earlier this season.

The Steelers, with five victories and a tie in their last six, have clinched third place in the Eastern Conference. The Steelers knocked off the Cards 27-20 Nov. 23.

Baltimore scored 28 points in the second half after trailing 27-7 to beat San Francisco in a previous get-together this year. Washington tripped Philadelphia 22-14 in the opening game of the season for both clubs.

Detroit, last season's NL titleholder, can finish no higher than fourth in the Western division. And this can only be accomplished if the Lions beat the Bears and San Francisco loses to Baltimore.

UNDERGOES SURGERY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jerry Schoonmaker, $30,000 bonus player in the Washington Senators system, underwent surgery Friday to remove a fragment of metal imbedded in his left eye.

Attendants at Barnes Hospital said it would be several weeks before the results of the delicate operation would be known.

Schoonmaker, 25, was operating a jackhammer on a construction job Thursday at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., when he was injured. He formerly starred at the University of Missouri in baseball and football.

Arenzville Wallops ISD Tigers, 90 - 54

With eight Tigers being benched for disciplinary reasons, Arenzville chalked up a decisive 90-54 victory Friday night in the ISD gymnasium.

The Tigers were never in the ball game after Don Kemp's Raiders jumped off to a 21-12 first quarter lead. Charles Roegge and Eddie Cox spearheaded Arenzville's scoring parade with 27 and 24 points respectively. Grob and Cherry paced ISD

JEREMY CHRISTMAS A Yuletide Story BY WALT SCOTT

THREE FACES OF LOVE by FAITH BALDWIN

© 1957 by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Adam has just learned that Dan, one of his business partners, has become financially involved by losing "other people's money" in speculation.

* * *

XI

"You mean this will implicate you?" Hope asked, and her color faded.

"Not in that sense, none of this has anything to do with Dan and me as partners. The people didn't come to the firm. They came to Dan, as relatives, friends, or friends of friends. All outside the office."

She said, "I still don't understand."

"Everything paid off at first, so they signed over a number of conservative, good investments and they took their savings from their accounts."

"But what can he do?" she asked. And this came from beneath the surface, "Poor Dan."

"That's about the size of it," Adam agreed, "he'll sell what he can, to pay what he can. We'll have to find the rest."

"But in Heaven's name, why?"

"We've been friends a long time, for one thing."

After a while she said, "All right. I don't agree with you, not now anyway. But, all right."

Then he said, with patience, "Aside from that, the implication would follow. So it isn't all disinterested. I'd like to keep the firm out of shadow. If—let us say, and it's quite possible—someone sues or just talks, there's open trouble. The firm's in the clear but the shadow's cast. Someone has only to say, 'Isn't that the guy who is a partner of—?'"

She cried, "Is a partner? You mean to sit there and say you won't make him let you buy out his interest?"

"No. If he wants to, all right. I'll talk with Marty about it, but I won't ask him to, I don't want to, actually."

"I think you're crazy," she said.

"Possibly. I've always known there was an element of risk with Dan, without dreaming of anything like this, of course. Perhaps it came from the fact that his people had, first, too much money and then comparatively little. That happened our freshman year and he took it big. There was enough for him to finish but not allowance-wise, as it had begun. So he always wanted it back, the financial freedom of the early years. He didn't want it bit by bit—that takes too long—but fast, a shower of gold. Pie in the sky. He married a girl with money, a girl who loved money, too. As for the partnership, he knew Jim's attitude. Jim was as conservative as a Sunday morning in a village church. Dan knew my attitude, more flexible than Jim's, not so flexible as Dan's. I was the guy in the middle. You know how it all happened: Jim had the most money to put in, Dan had Barbara's, I had a little, and you gave me your own."

* * *

"I don't have money of my own," said Hope. "We have some money."

"Thank you," he said lovingly. "Jim had the experience, and the name, but he wanted out of a big firm and into a smaller, with less work. I think he knew then that it was later for him than the rest of us imagined. My background and training were good, people trusted me, they trusted and admired Jim; but they fell in love with Dan. A matter of personality—the golden boy. So, they trusted him too. We made a good team. Even Dan's crazy flair for hunches, his yen to gamble, came into it, for now and then he exercised it and came out on top; but he never exercised it without talking to Jim or me."

She said, "I still don't see why you want to keep him."

"I must. We have to free him from the balance of debt and, if possible, save his marriage."

"Is it worth saving?"

"I think any marriage is worth saving."

Now her anger burned again, and against Barbara. She said, "But I don't think she loves him!"

"She loves him," Adam said, "as much as she can, in the way she can. He's besotted about her. His luck was with him there. He fell in love with a girl who had money." He broke off, looked at his wife, and for the first time smiled. "Come to think of it," he said, "so did I, Susan."

She said, "Not then and not so much as Barbara's."

He sobered again. "Dan would sell his soul to make Barbara happy."

"She doesn't love him," Hope said stubbornly.

* * *

He said slowly, "She loves the way he loves her; she loves the way he looks and walks and laughs— What's the matter, darling?"

"I had forgotten the children," she said.

"I had, too," said Adam, "until Dan spoke of them. Mostly, he was talking about their mother, Susie."

This was one of the big moments, so he called her Susie, and gravely, for this was really big, whether or not she knew it.

"Boys," he said, "have to grow up respecting their father. That sounds right out of the book and it's true. When they are men they still respect or, according to maturer knowledge, not so much, maybe not at all. But it was there when they needed it, as security. I know what I'm talking about."

"What will we do?" asked Hope presently.

"We'll cut down for a time. And I'll have to ask you for the rest of your mother's legacy."

Ed Lubanski Captures World's Bowling Crown

CHICAGO (AP) — Ed Lubanski finally won his first major individual title as he captured the second annual World's Invitational Bowling Championship Friday night in the Chicago Coliseum.

Lubanski, a 29-year-old former minor league baseball pitcher, finished far ahead of the top bowler in the country to earn the $5,000 top prize.

Lubanski, who has been a national doubles champion, and a member of national team champions, finished with 317.02 points while defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis, who was in third place going into the final round, won all four games in his match to take second with 310.02 points.

Lubanski split even in his match with Don Ellis in rolling games of 212, 223, 206 and 204 for an 845 series. Ellis had 225, 179, 203 and 226 for a total of 833 and finished third behind Carter.

Lubanski, who took over the lead on the seventh round Wednesday, thus destroyed a precedent in National Match Game bowling.

This was the first time the qualifying leader won the championship Lubanski led the qualifiers with a total of 7,778 pins for 36 games.

Carter received $2,500 while Ellis, the third place finisher got $1,250.

Charlotte Grubic, a 34-year-old union secretary from Steelton, Pa. took the championship of the women's divison.

Mrs. Grubic, whose only claim to bowling fame was a 15th place finish in last year's National All-Star Tournament in Minneapolis, went into the final match with the title practically clinched.

However, second-place Elvira Toepfer, 36-year-old Detroit housewife came within one strike of beating out Mrs. Grubic.

The title, the first national crown for the slim daughter of a Pennsylvania coal miner, was worth $2,500 in cash.

Mrs. Grubic finished with a total of 146.27 points while Mrs. Toepfer was consoled by the $1,250 second place prize. She wound up .05 points behind Mrs. Grubic.

Finishing third was Rockford, Ill., pharmacist Jeannette Grzelak who had 143.33 points.

Defending champion Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has also won the National All-Star title six times in nine attempts, finished a distant 10th among the 16 women finalists.

Burton Leads Michigan Past Butler, 86-70

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—M. C. Burton put on a tremendous scoring show with 38 points Friday night and led Michigan to an 86-70 basketball victory over Butler.

Burton broke Michigan's individual scoring record with his sharp shooting as the Wolverines led from the second minute.

The old record was set by Ron Kramer, who scored 34 points against Northwestern in 1956.

The Wolverines had little difficulty taking their third victory in four starts. Butler, mainly through the shooting of Bill Scott, kept in contention until early in the second half. Then Burton pitched in nine quick points and Michigan never again was threatened.

Scott tallied 22 points for the winless Bulldogs. Butler now has lost all four games this season.

John Tidwell gave Burton plentiful help with 24 points.

WORDS OF WISDOM

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Johnny Sain, new pitching coach for the Kansas City Athletics, has an offbeat approach to his job—he starts in the batting box, not on the mound.

General Manager Parke Carroll, back from a visit to the Florida Winter Instructional League where Sain has started his duties with the A's team of young hopefuls, told about it Friday.

Sain explained, Carroll related, that a pitcher can add several victories to his total through a season by making himself an asset with the bat. A well-placed sacrifice bunt, a sacrifice fly, a hit—the can be important contributions by a hurler.

IDA Decorates Business Area In Greenfield

GREENFIELD—The Greenfield Industrial Development Association is sponsoring the decorating and lighting of the business district for the holiday season. Frank Greer and Frank Henderson are in charge of the work. Colored lights outline the city park with a large decorated tree near the bandstand and lighted trees on each corner. Over two dozen swatches of evergreen, centered with large bright red plastic bows add to the festive appearance throughout the area.

The December meeting of the Traveler's Club was held Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Vandaveer. Mrs. James W. Ford was in charge of the program on the subject "Mothers of Yesteryears."

The Christmas party of the Grace V. Metcalf Sunday School class of the Methodist church will be held at the home of Mrs. Ruby Harrington Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 17, at 2 o'clock. Instead of the dollar gift exchange among the members, donations will be received for the building fund of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Frank J. Meng will be hostess Friday, Dec. 19, for the Tau Upsilon Club and their holiday supper and Christmas party. A gift exchange among the members will be a feature of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaither have moved from the former Neutzman property on North Prairie to one of the new Sample's property on West Walnut. Gaither is a member of the Greenfield high school faculty. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hinde will move into the other Sample's homes. Bluffs WSCS To Send Gifts To Children's Home

BLUFFS—The December meeting of the Bluffs Woman's Society of Christian Service was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul B. Smith with Mrs. Norris Whorton assisting. The home was attractively decorated in keeping with the holiday season.

An inspiring devotional and program period was prepared and presented by Mrs. Merton Pond, Mrs. Paul Vannier and Mrs. Donald Merris. The theme was "Everywhere, Everywhere, Christmas." Throughout the program Mrs. Vannier and Mrs. Merris sang several carols as a duet. An interesting part of the program was the story of various carols and the meaning of music to the missionaries.

Seventeen members answered roll call with a Bible verse with "joy."

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Harold Oakes, Mrs. Margaret Watson presided at the business session. Reports of various secretaries were given. Mrs. Clyde Arnold reported on the cookies sent this week to Chanute Air Field. Two money making projects, shopping bags and trays, were reported on. Plans for the sending of cheer gifts were discussed.

The members brought lovely gift wrapped packages to be sent to Cunningham Children's Home in Urbana for their Christmas tree instead of a gift exchange.

The meeting closed with a beautiful spiritual thought for the day and prayer by Mrs. Jane Woodson.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments of creamed chicken topped with biscuits in the shape of chickens, spiced apples, candies and salted nut meats with coffee and tea were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Harold Oakes with Mrs. Royal Oakes and Mrs. Cynthia Newberry assisting.
